

CMS 100: Media Research Paper

Step 1: As a class, define questions we want to ask interviewees about their use of consumer electronics.

Step 2: Interview two of your peers at MIT using the questions defined in class. Interviews should take no more than an hour. Type up transcripts of these interviews.
No late transcripts will be accepted, because your classmates depend on your transcripts to write their papers.

Step 3: Write a paper of approximately ten pages in length, drawing from all your classmates' transcripts as well as your own, and your own individual research. You may write this paper on any topic that seems to grow out of the interview transcripts; you will define your own topic and determine the amount of external research necessary to write a good paper.

MIT OpenCourseWare
<http://ocw.mit.edu>

CMS.100 Introduction to Media Studies
Fall 2014

For information about citing these materials or our Terms of Use, visit: <http://ocw.mit.edu/terms>.