

MIT OpenCourseWare
<http://ocw.mit.edu>

11.307 Beijing Urban Design Studio
Summer 2008

For information about citing these materials or our Terms of Use, visit: <http://ocw.mit.edu/terms>.

guiding principles

1 housing

2 public access

3 two-level labor

4 integration and connection with Beijing

5 micrcosm of city

project attitude

the street is public space in China

the typical Chinese plaza can be subdivided to increase public access

private enterprise does not mean the loss of public space

Shougang

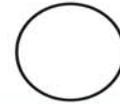

FUTURE

Forbidden City

PAST

CBD

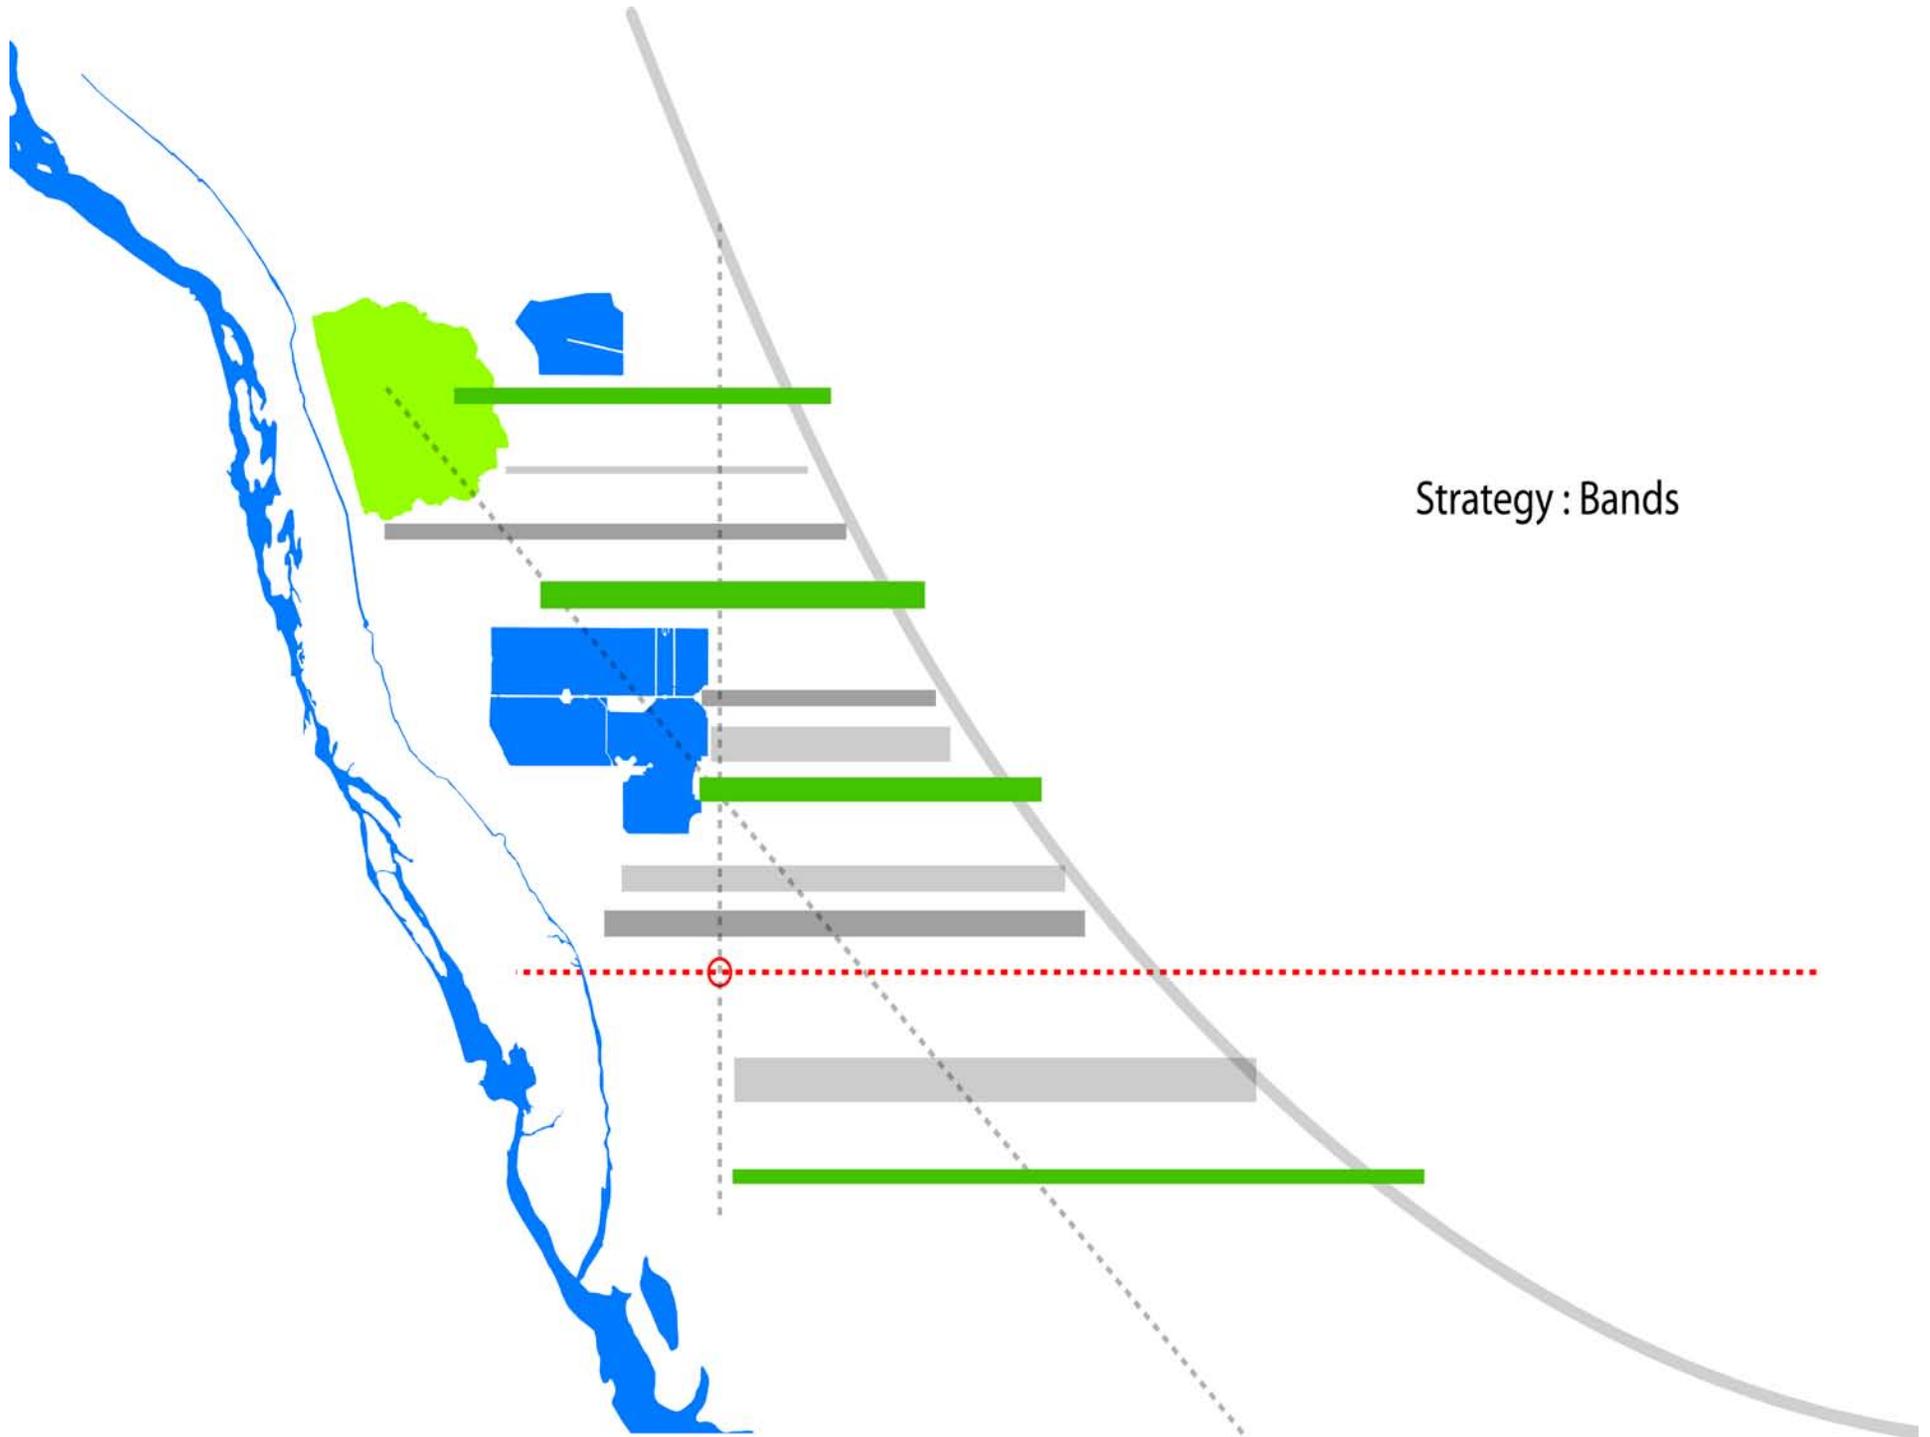

PRESENT

east-west axis

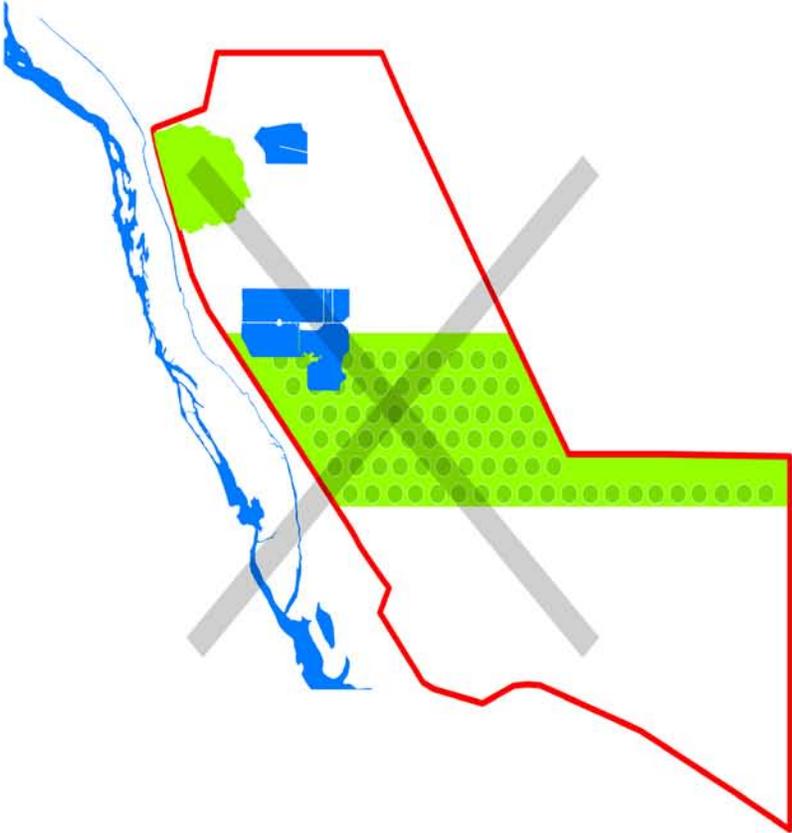

Existing Flows, Axes

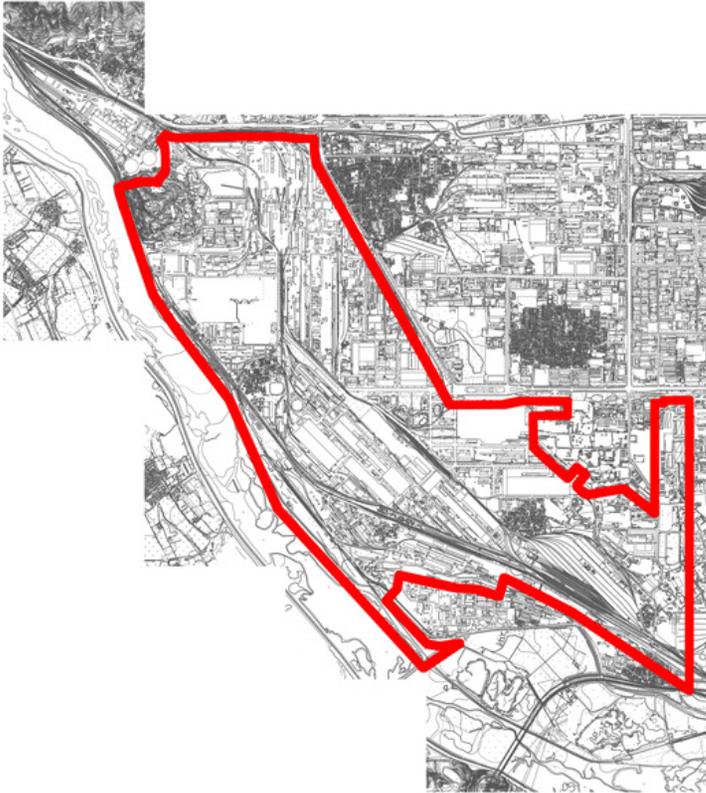

Strategy : Bands

the concept of public space

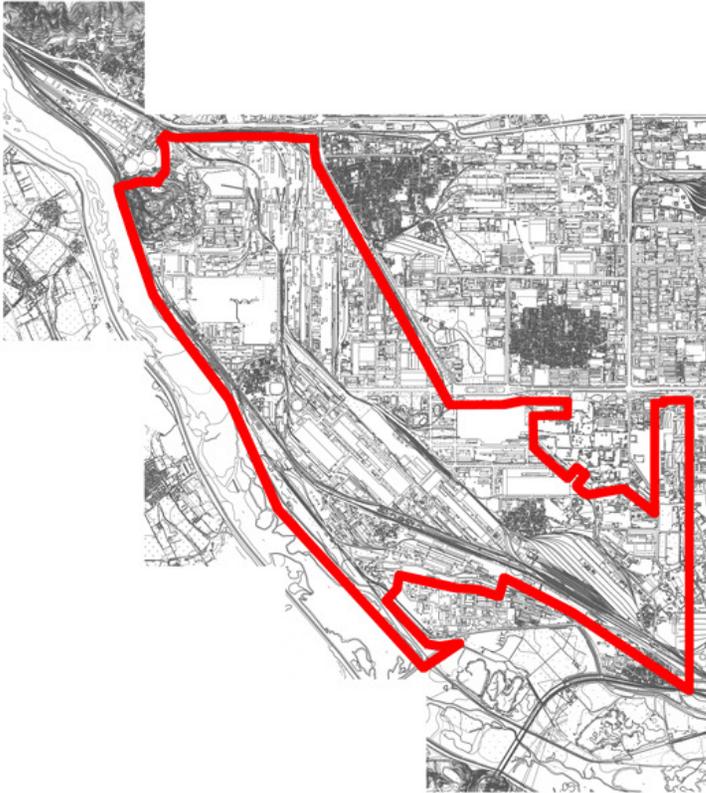

The ShouGang factory
6,400,000m²

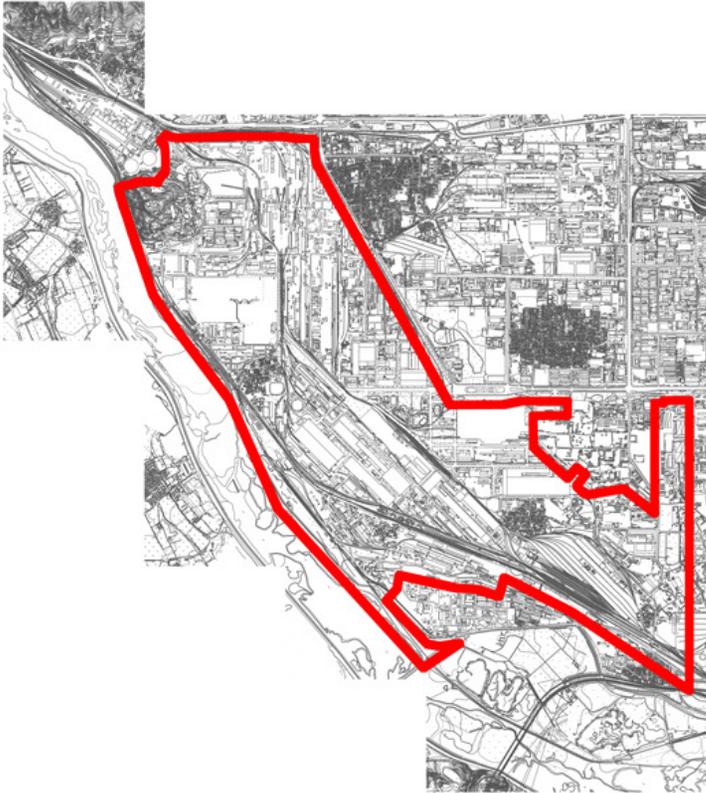

The CBD of Beijing
7,100,000m²

The ShouGang factory
6,400,000m²

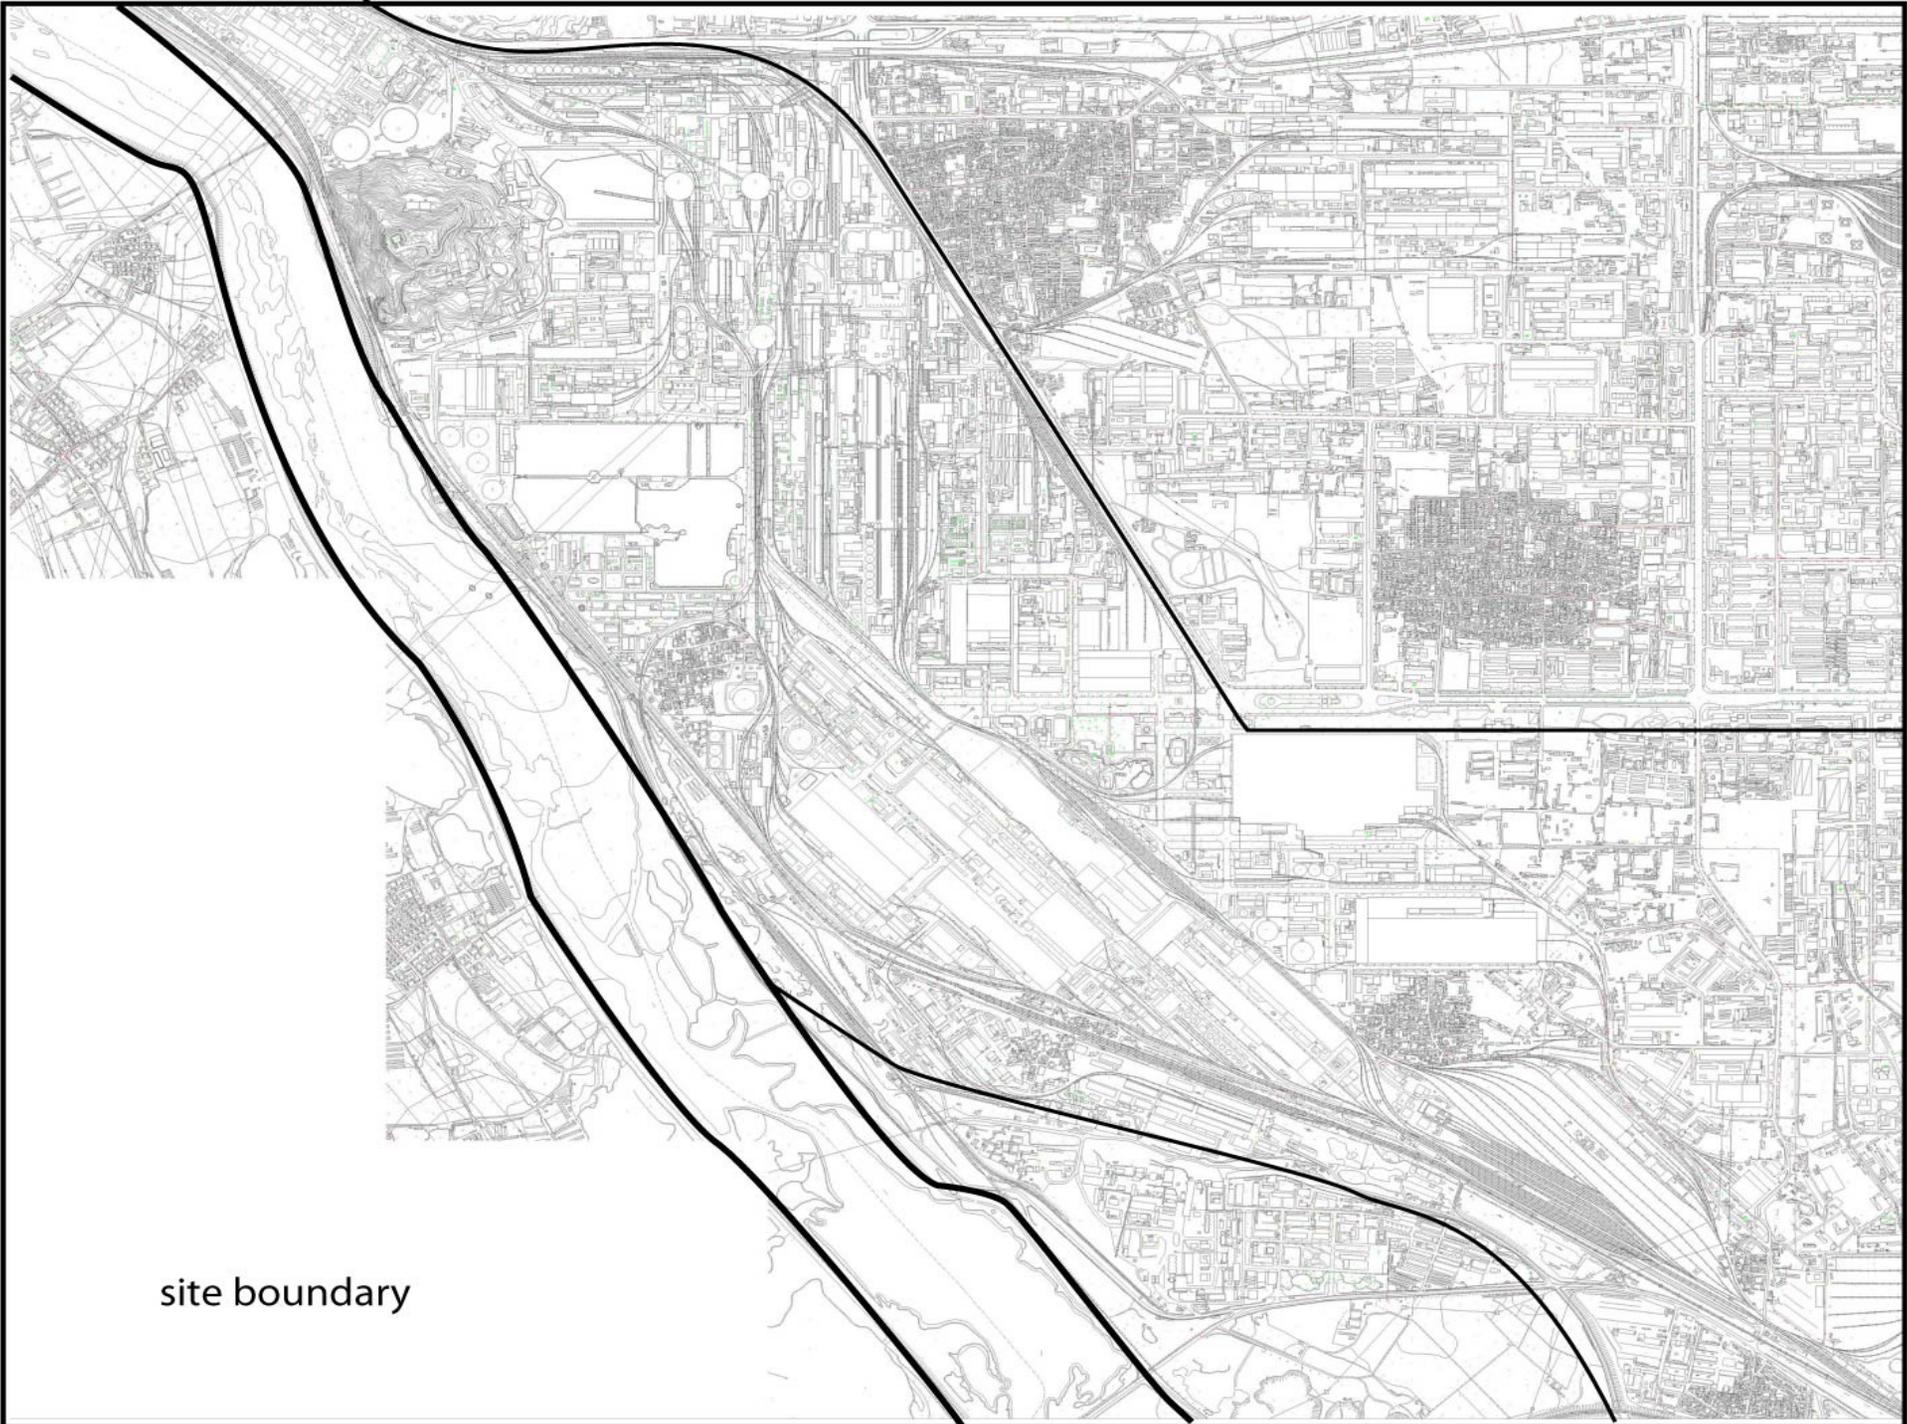

The Forbidden City
1,000,000m²

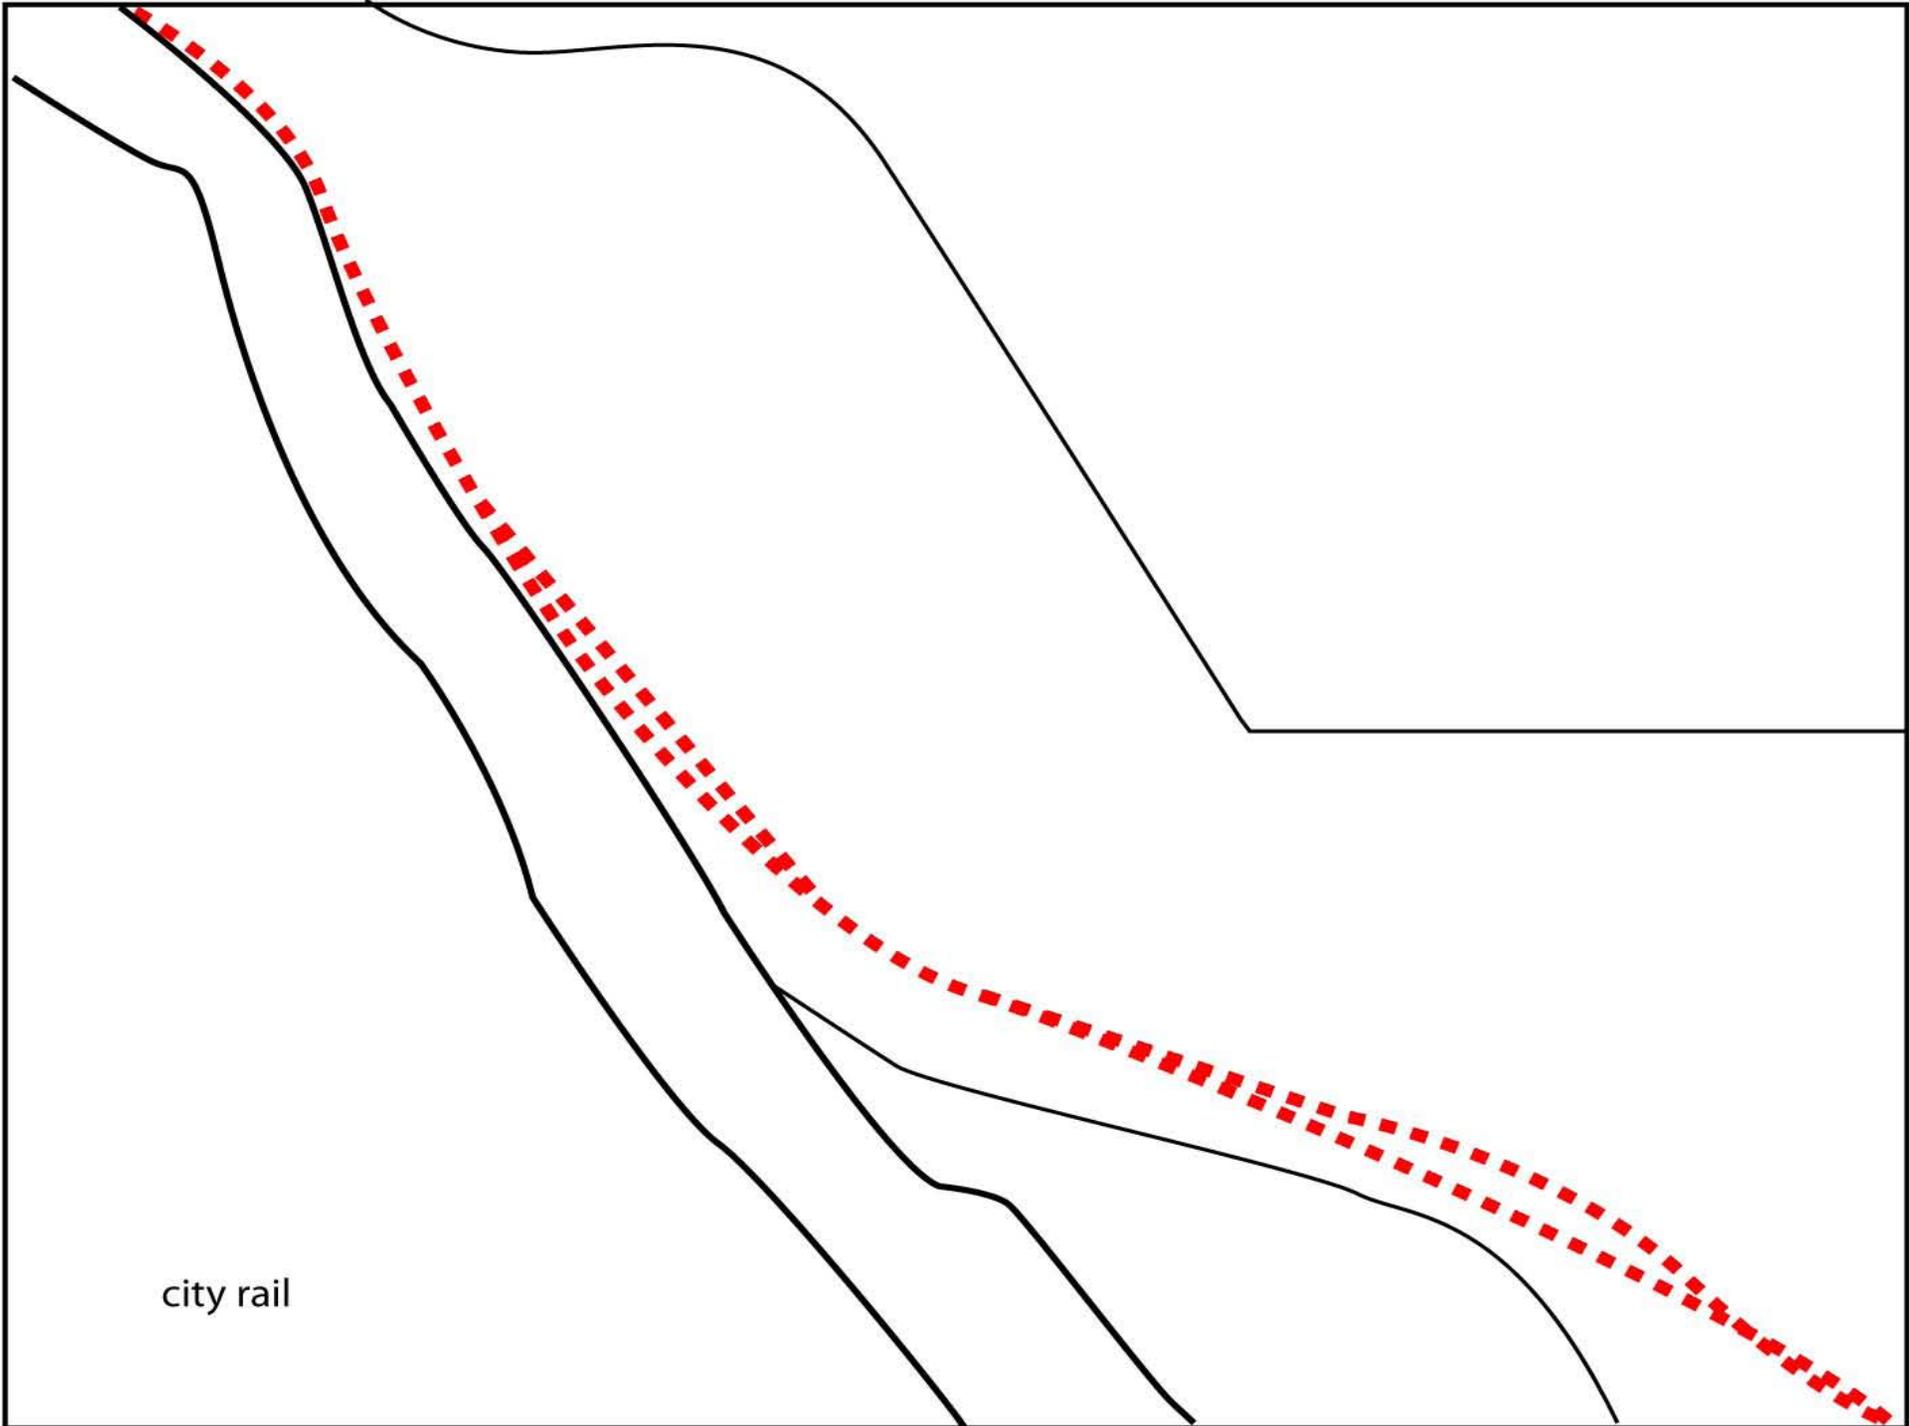

The ShouGang factory
6,400,000m²

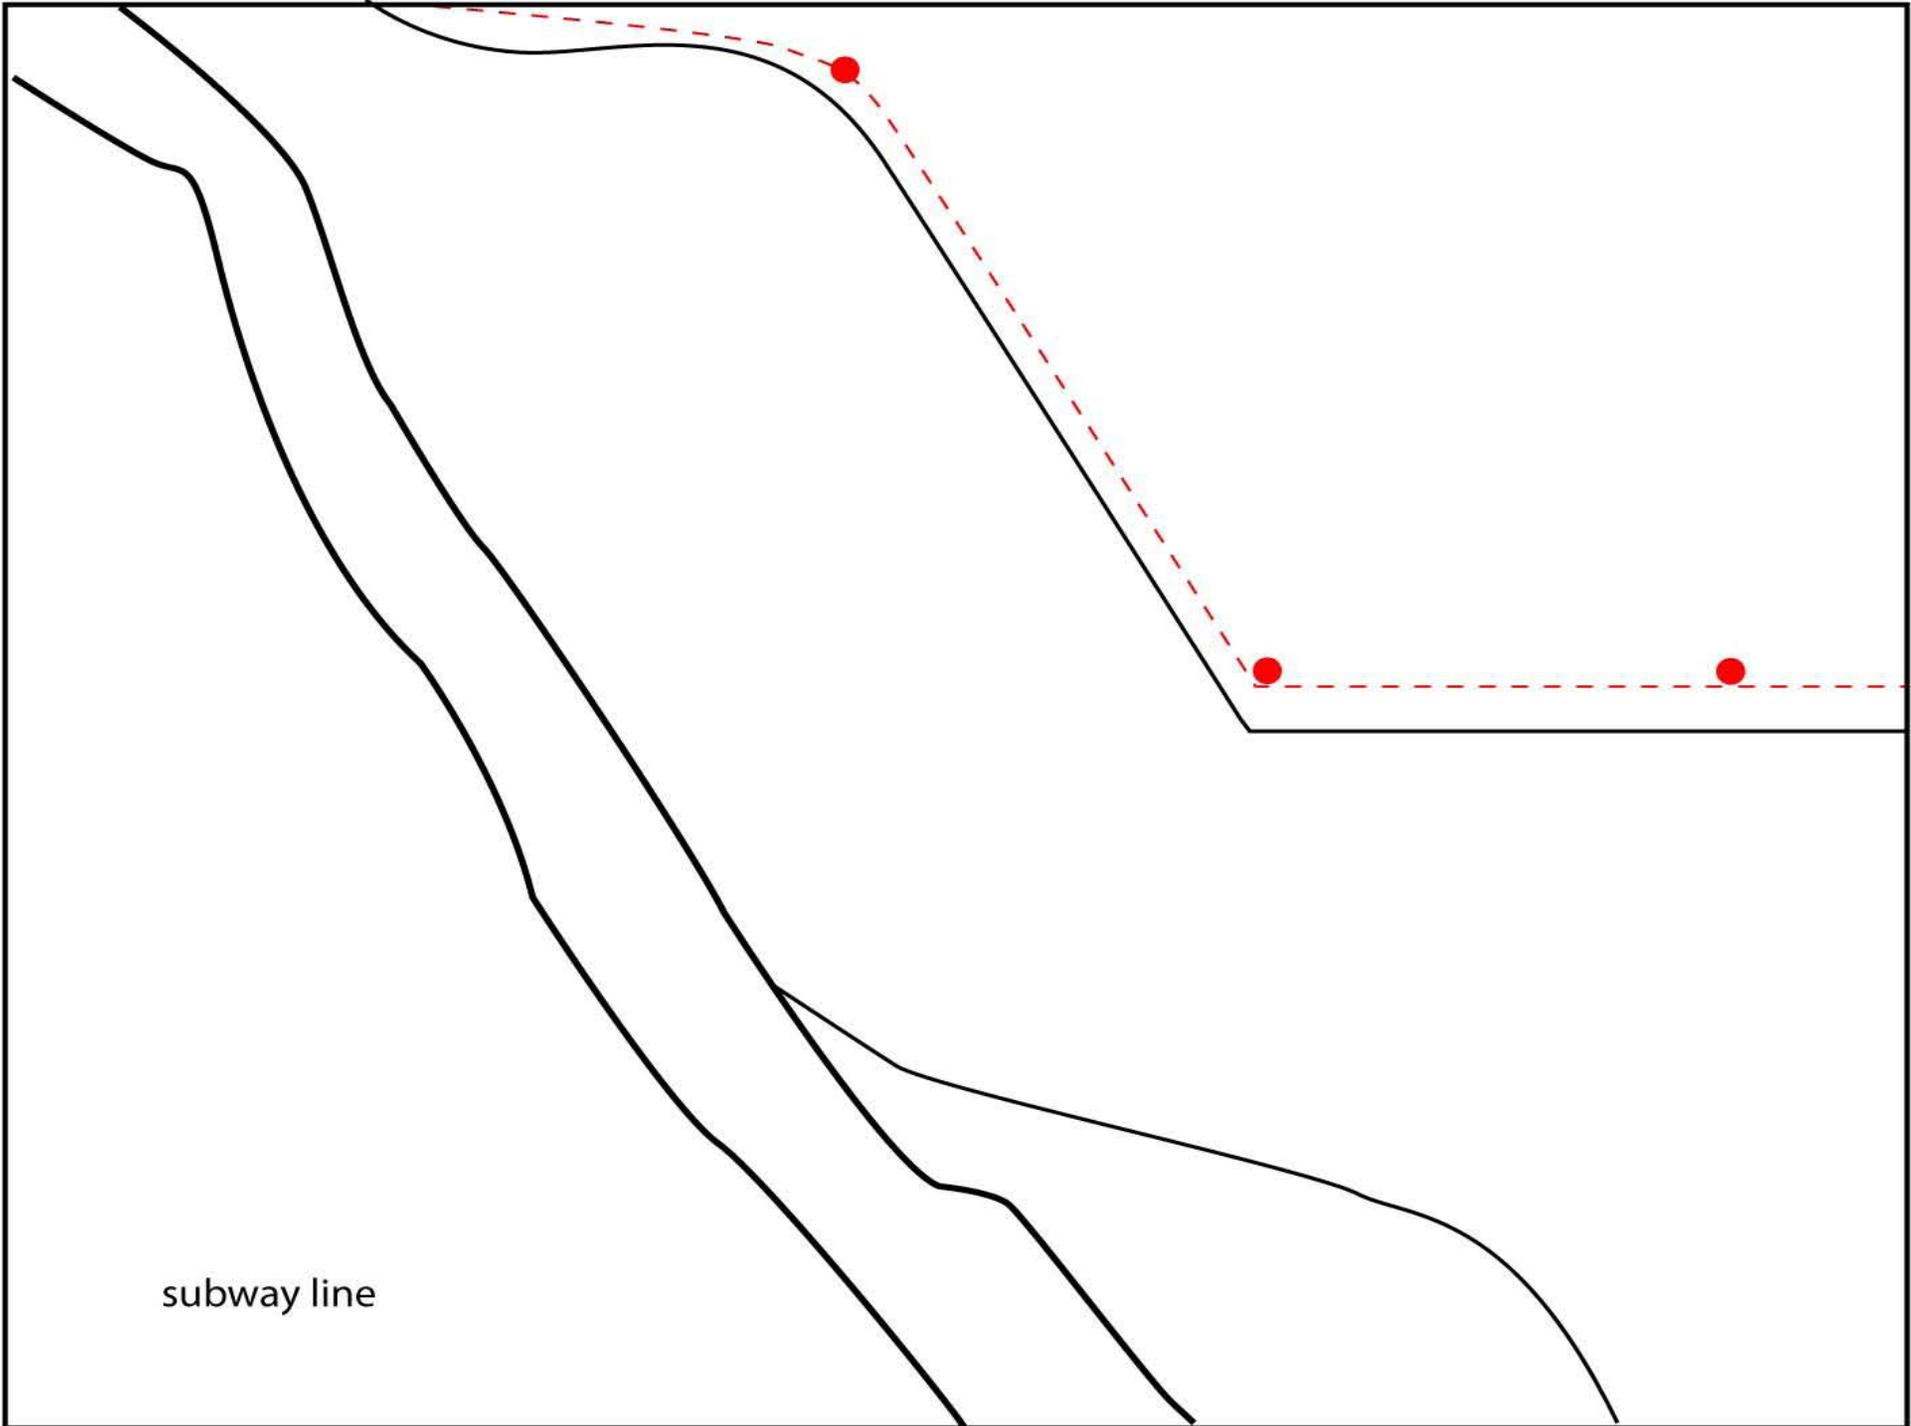

The Peking Campus
1,200,000

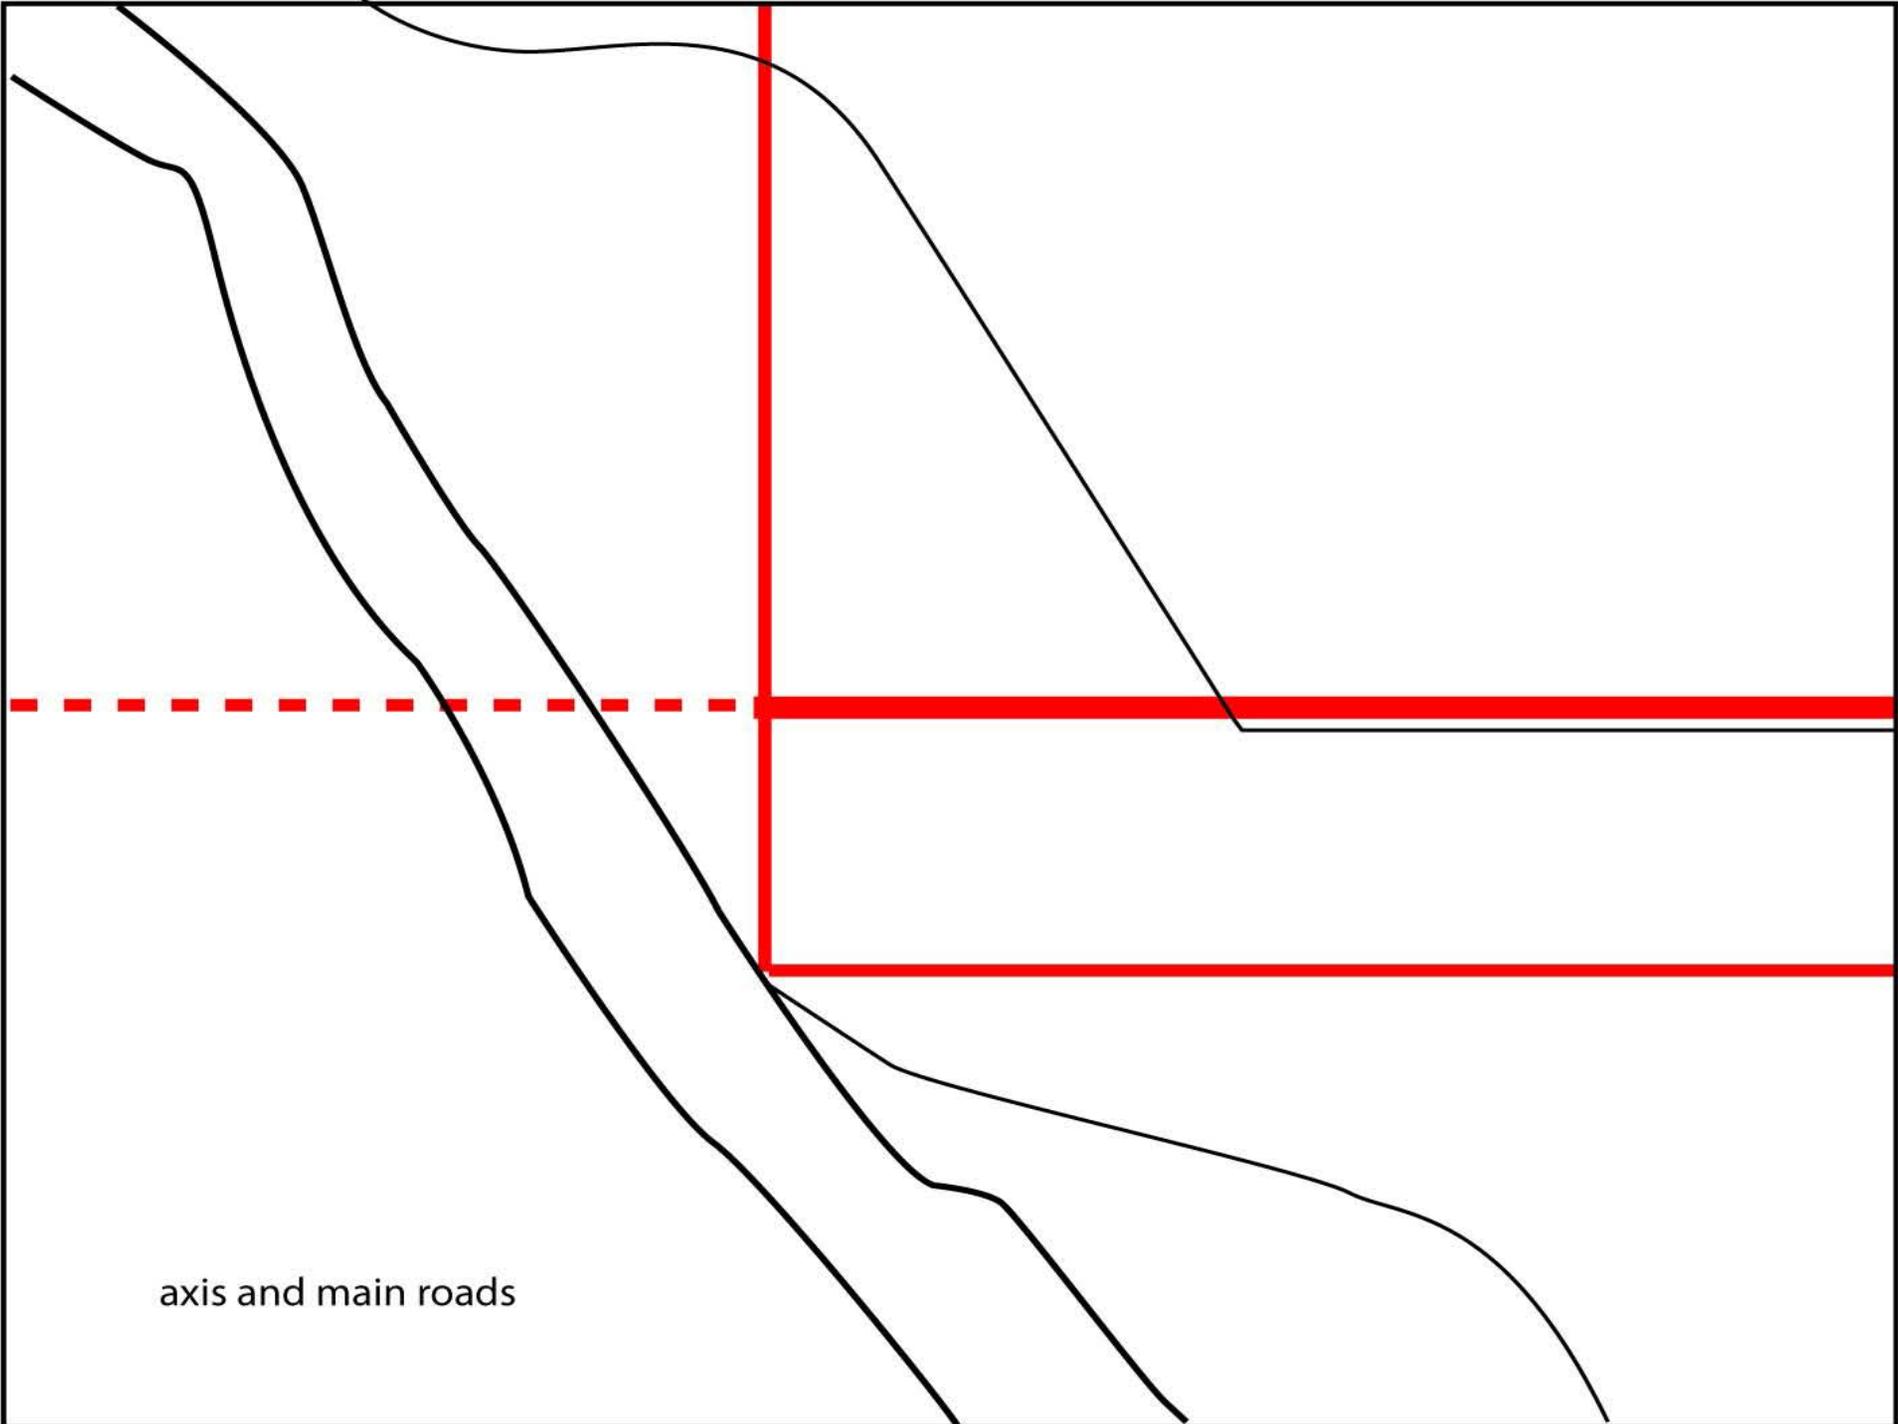

site boundary

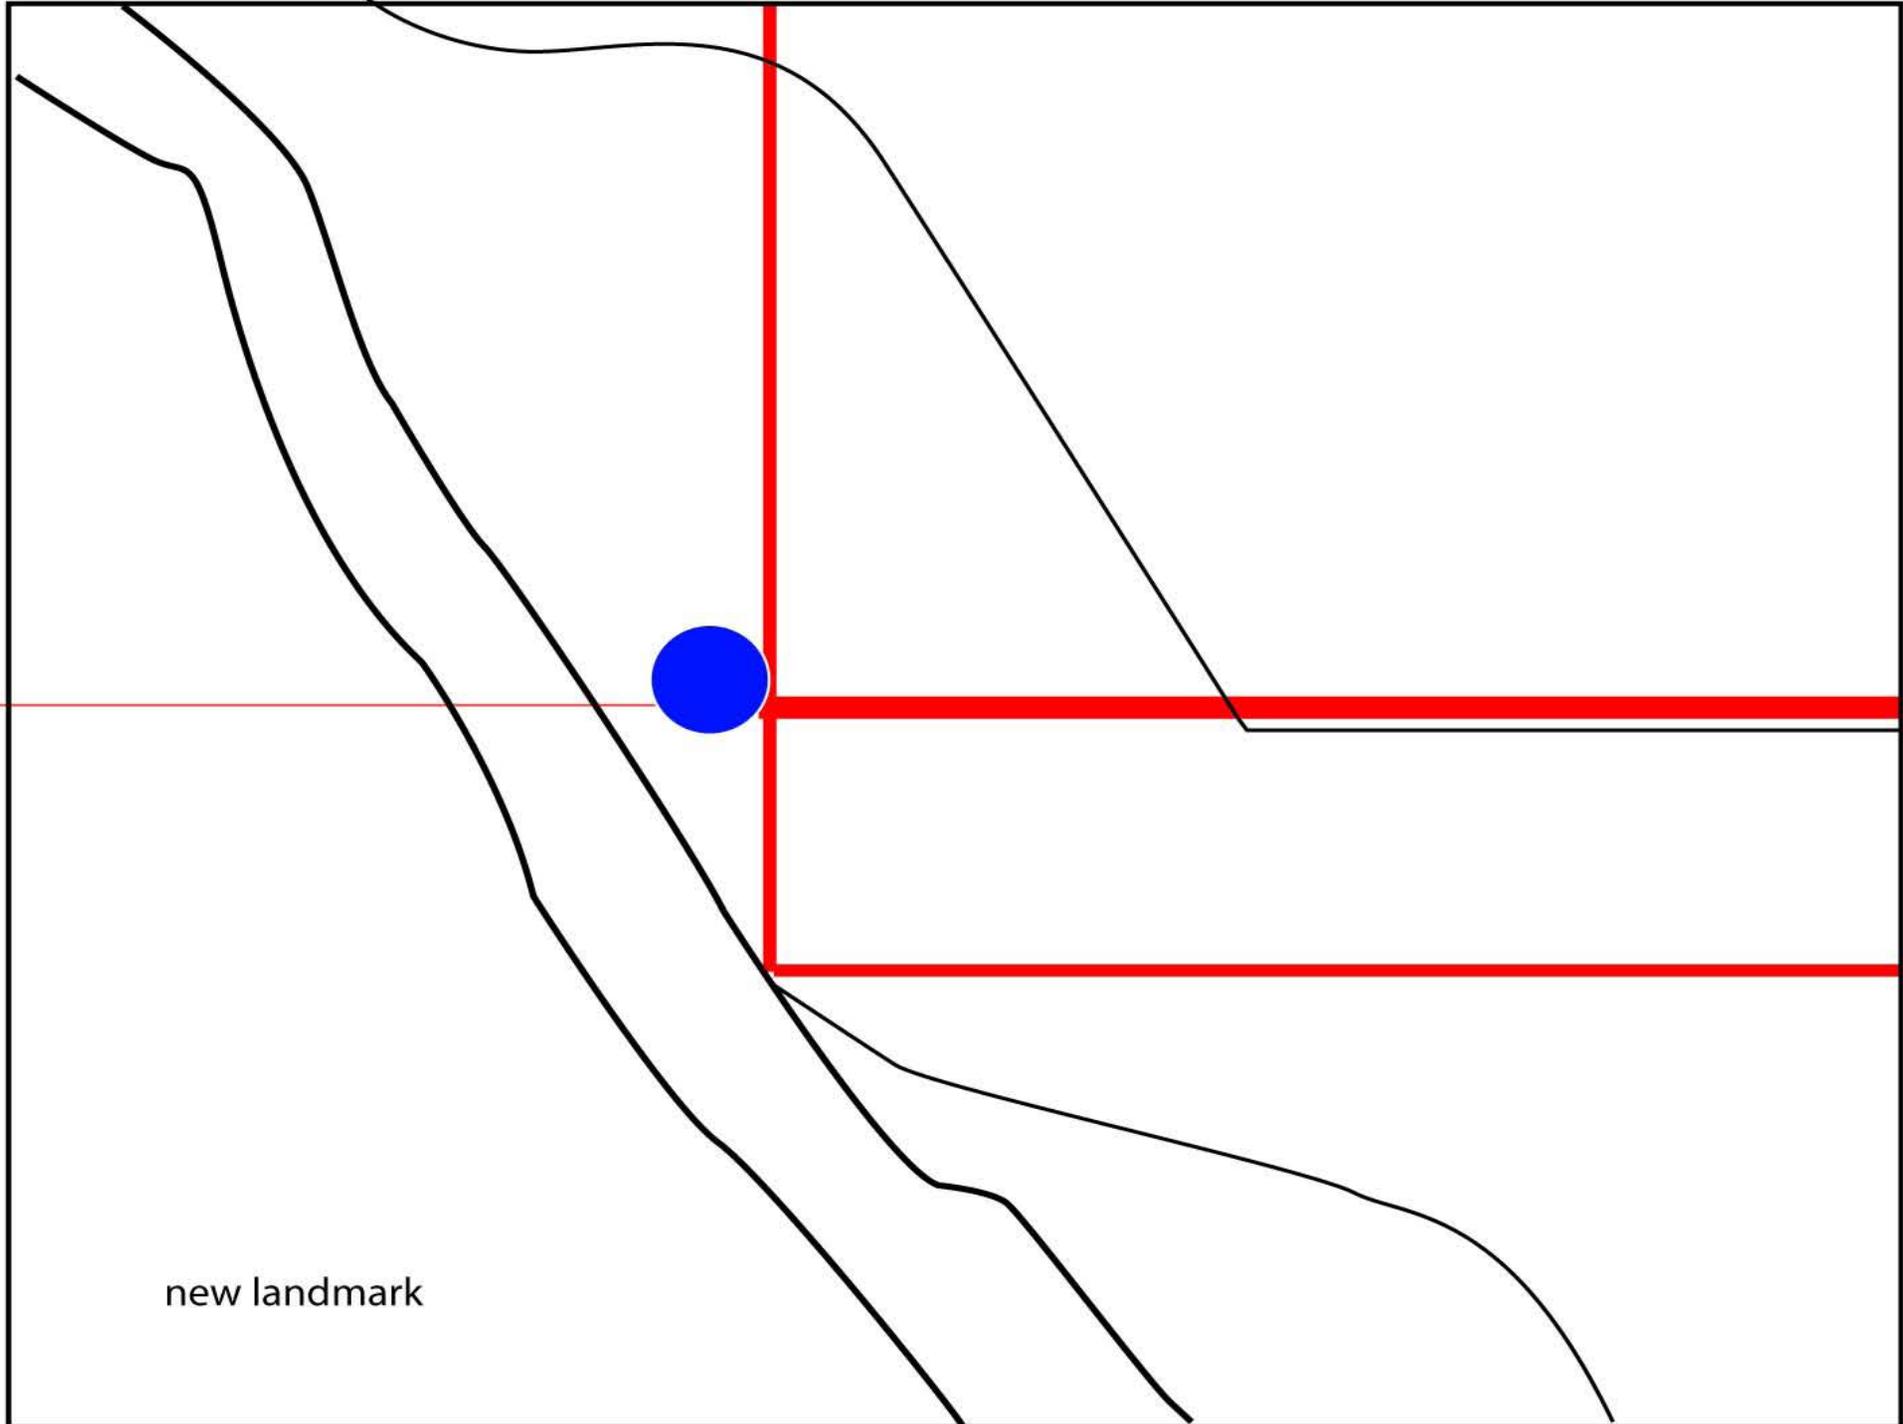

city rail

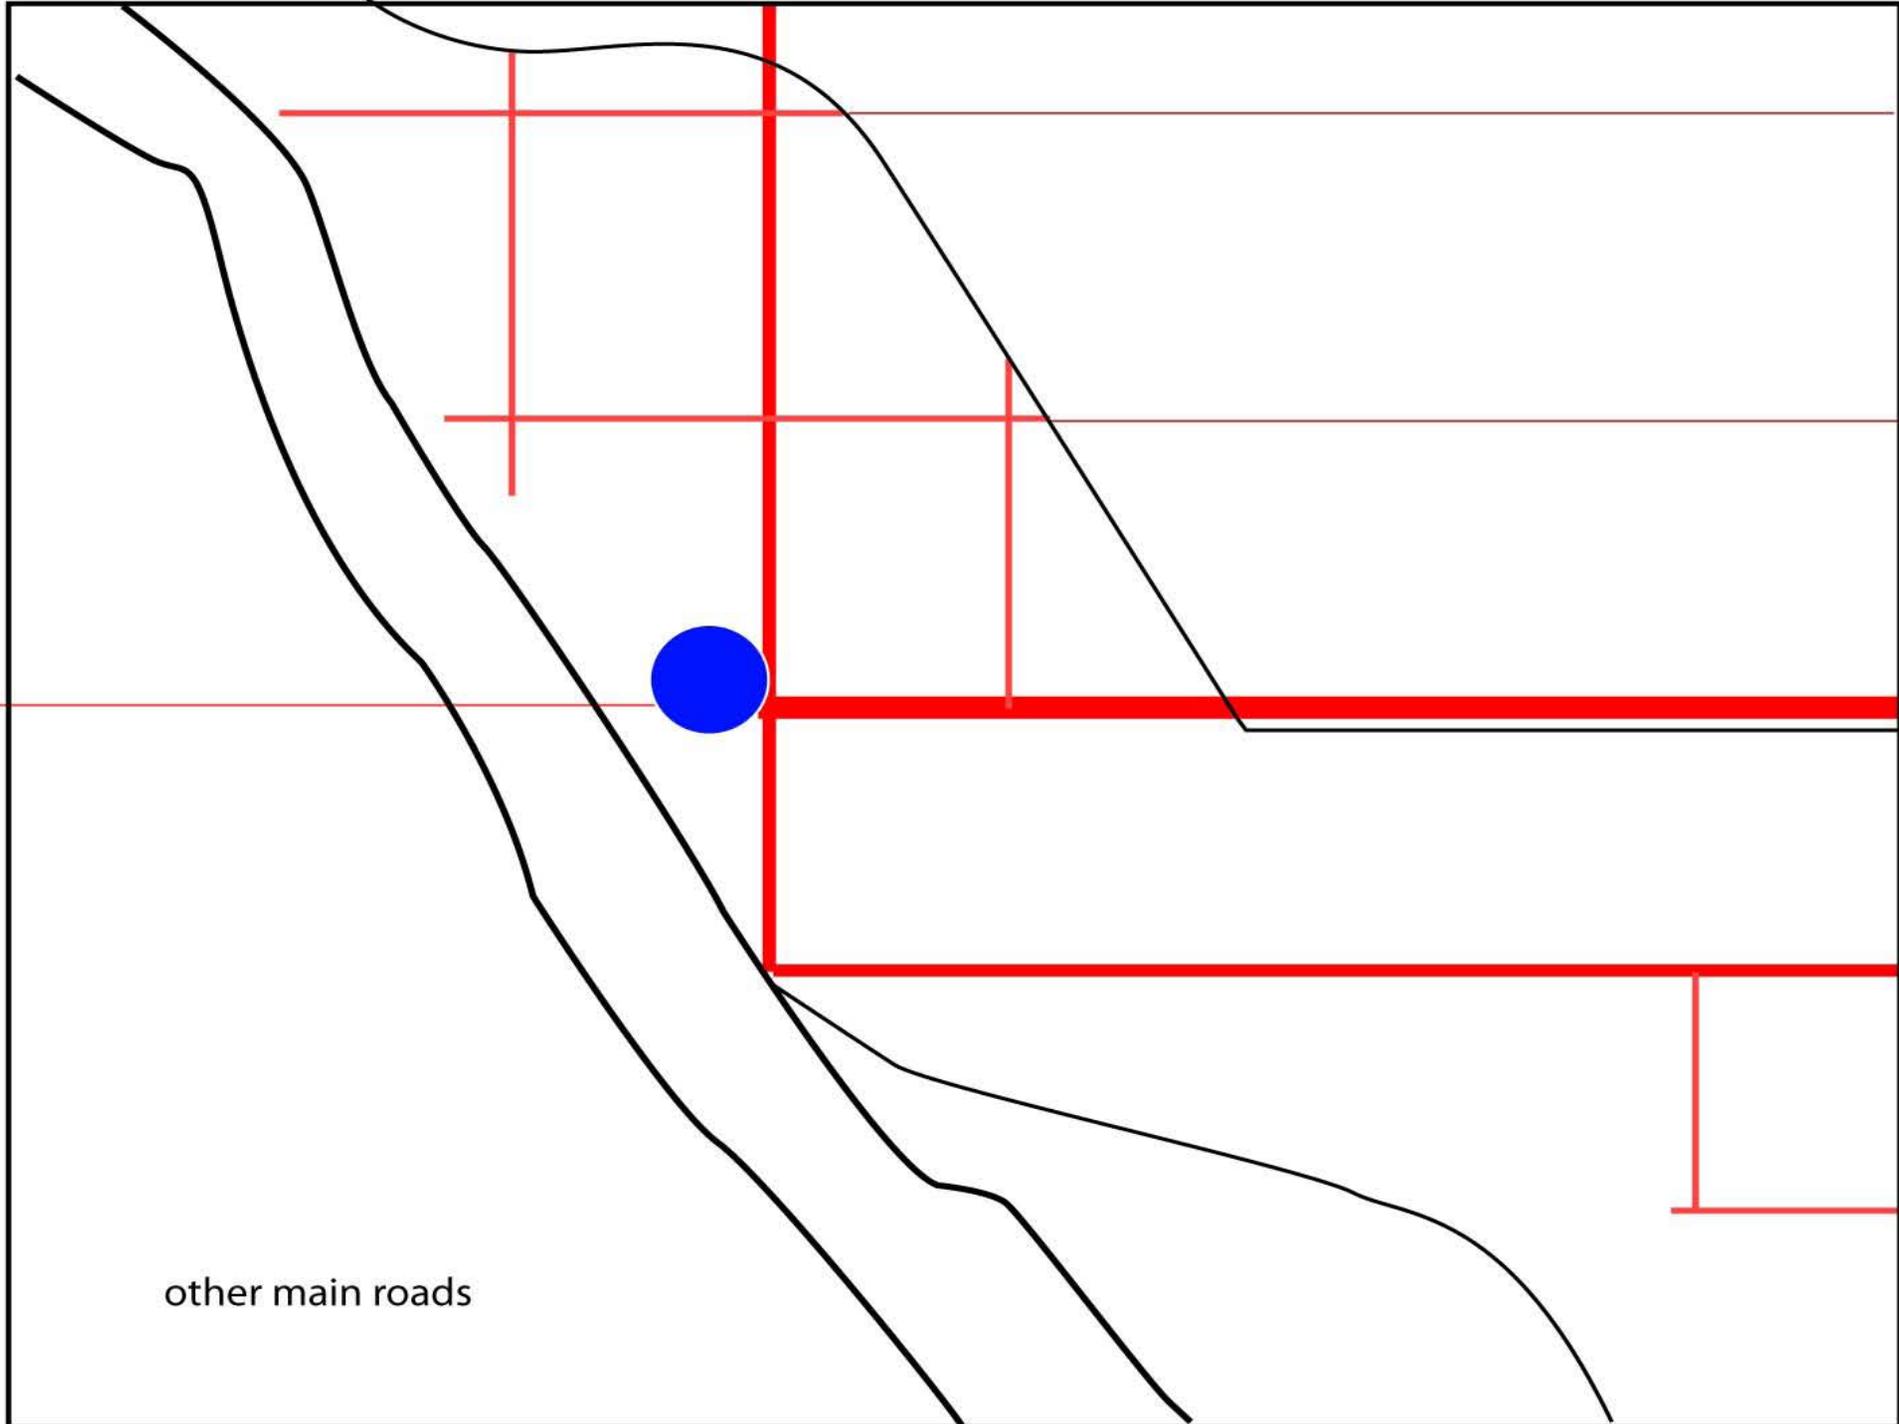

subway line

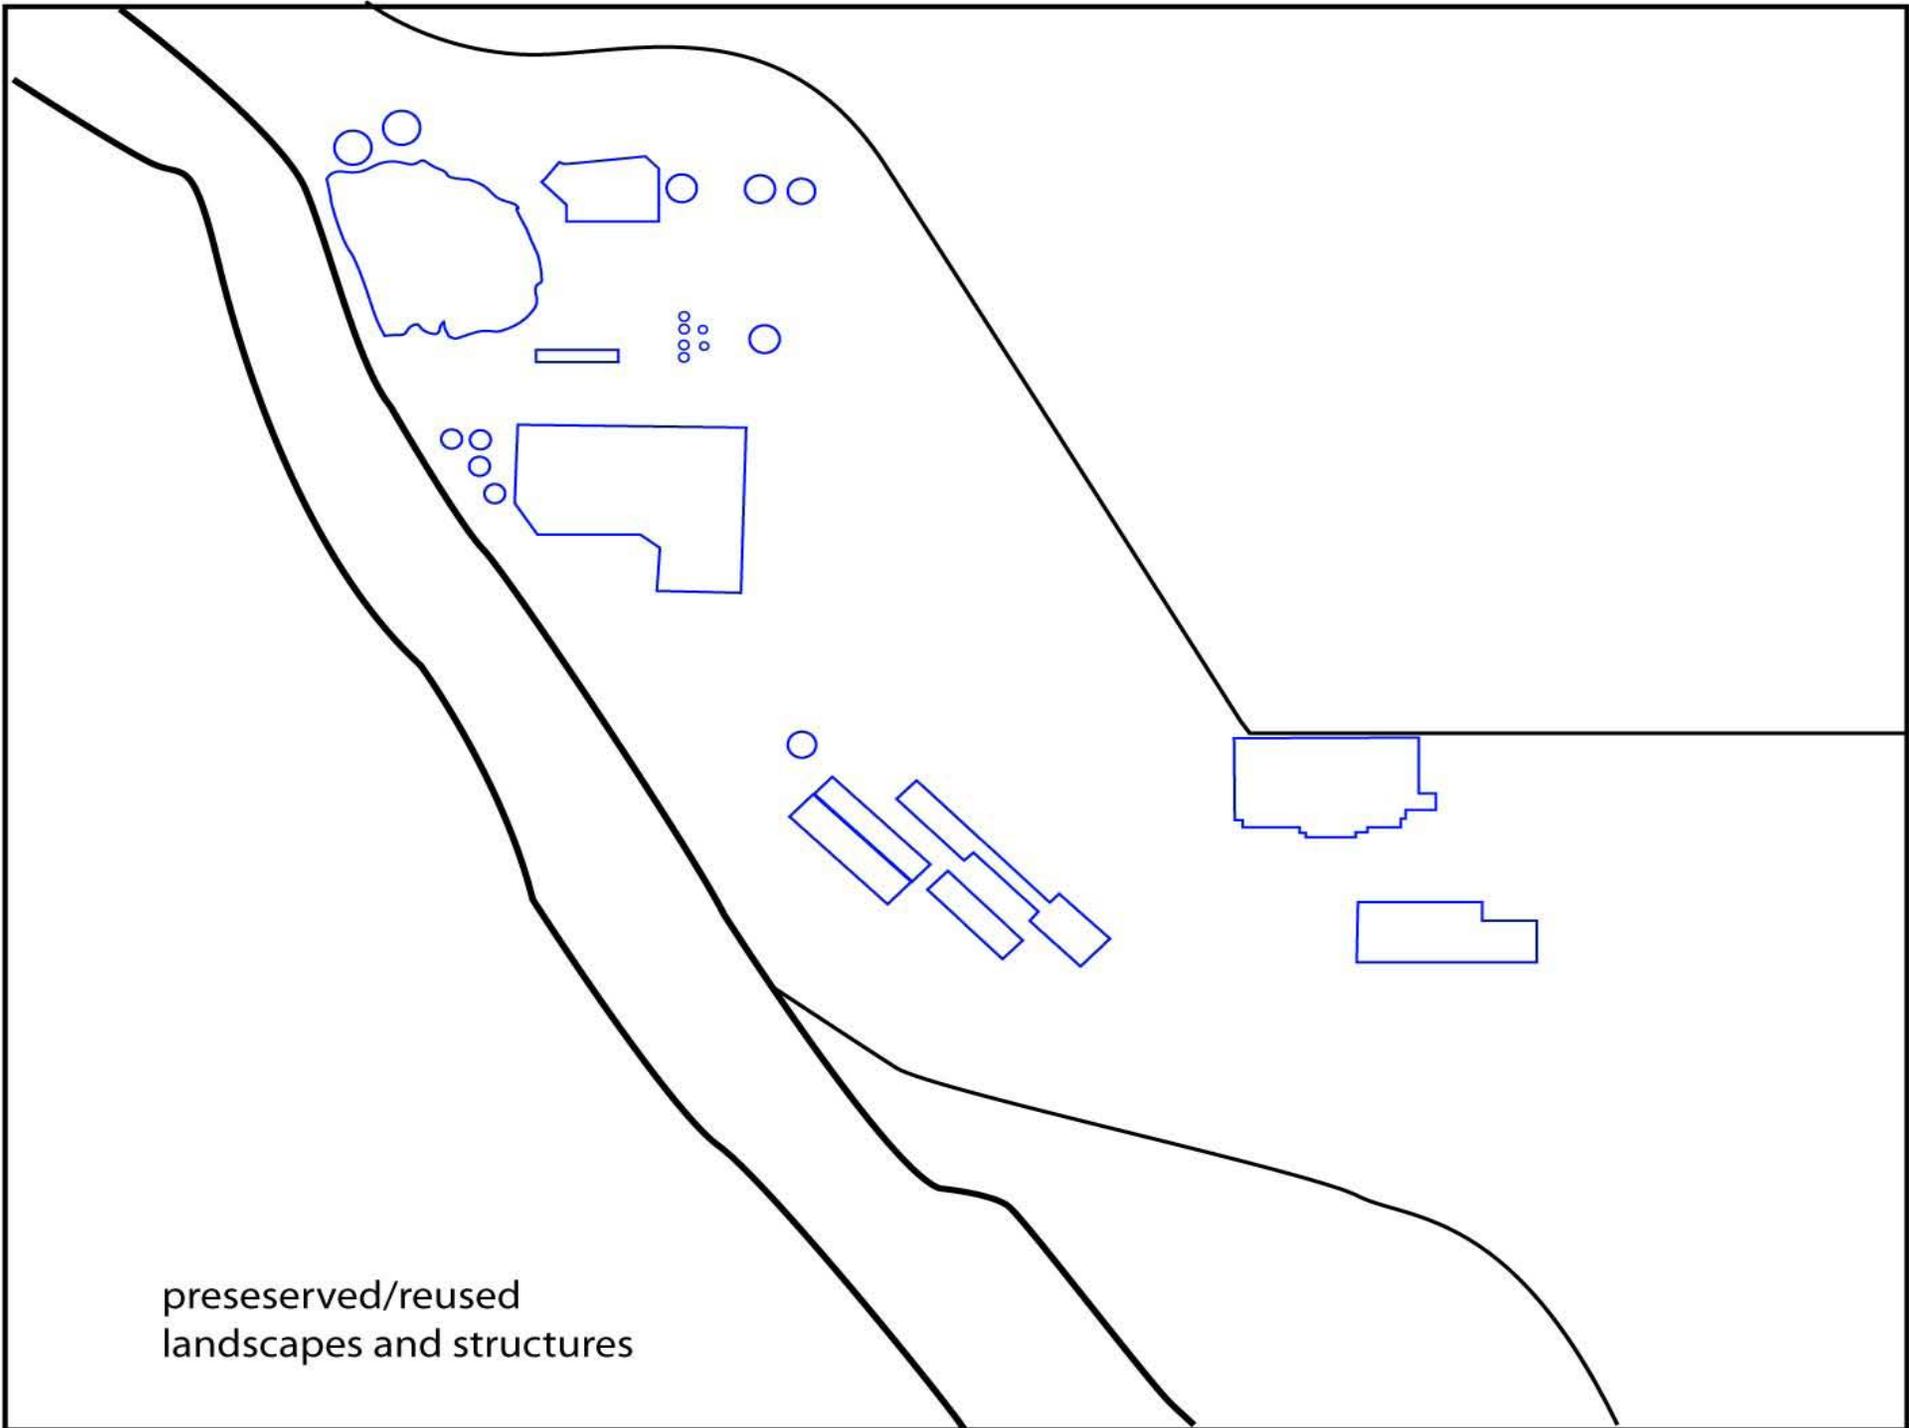

axis and main roads

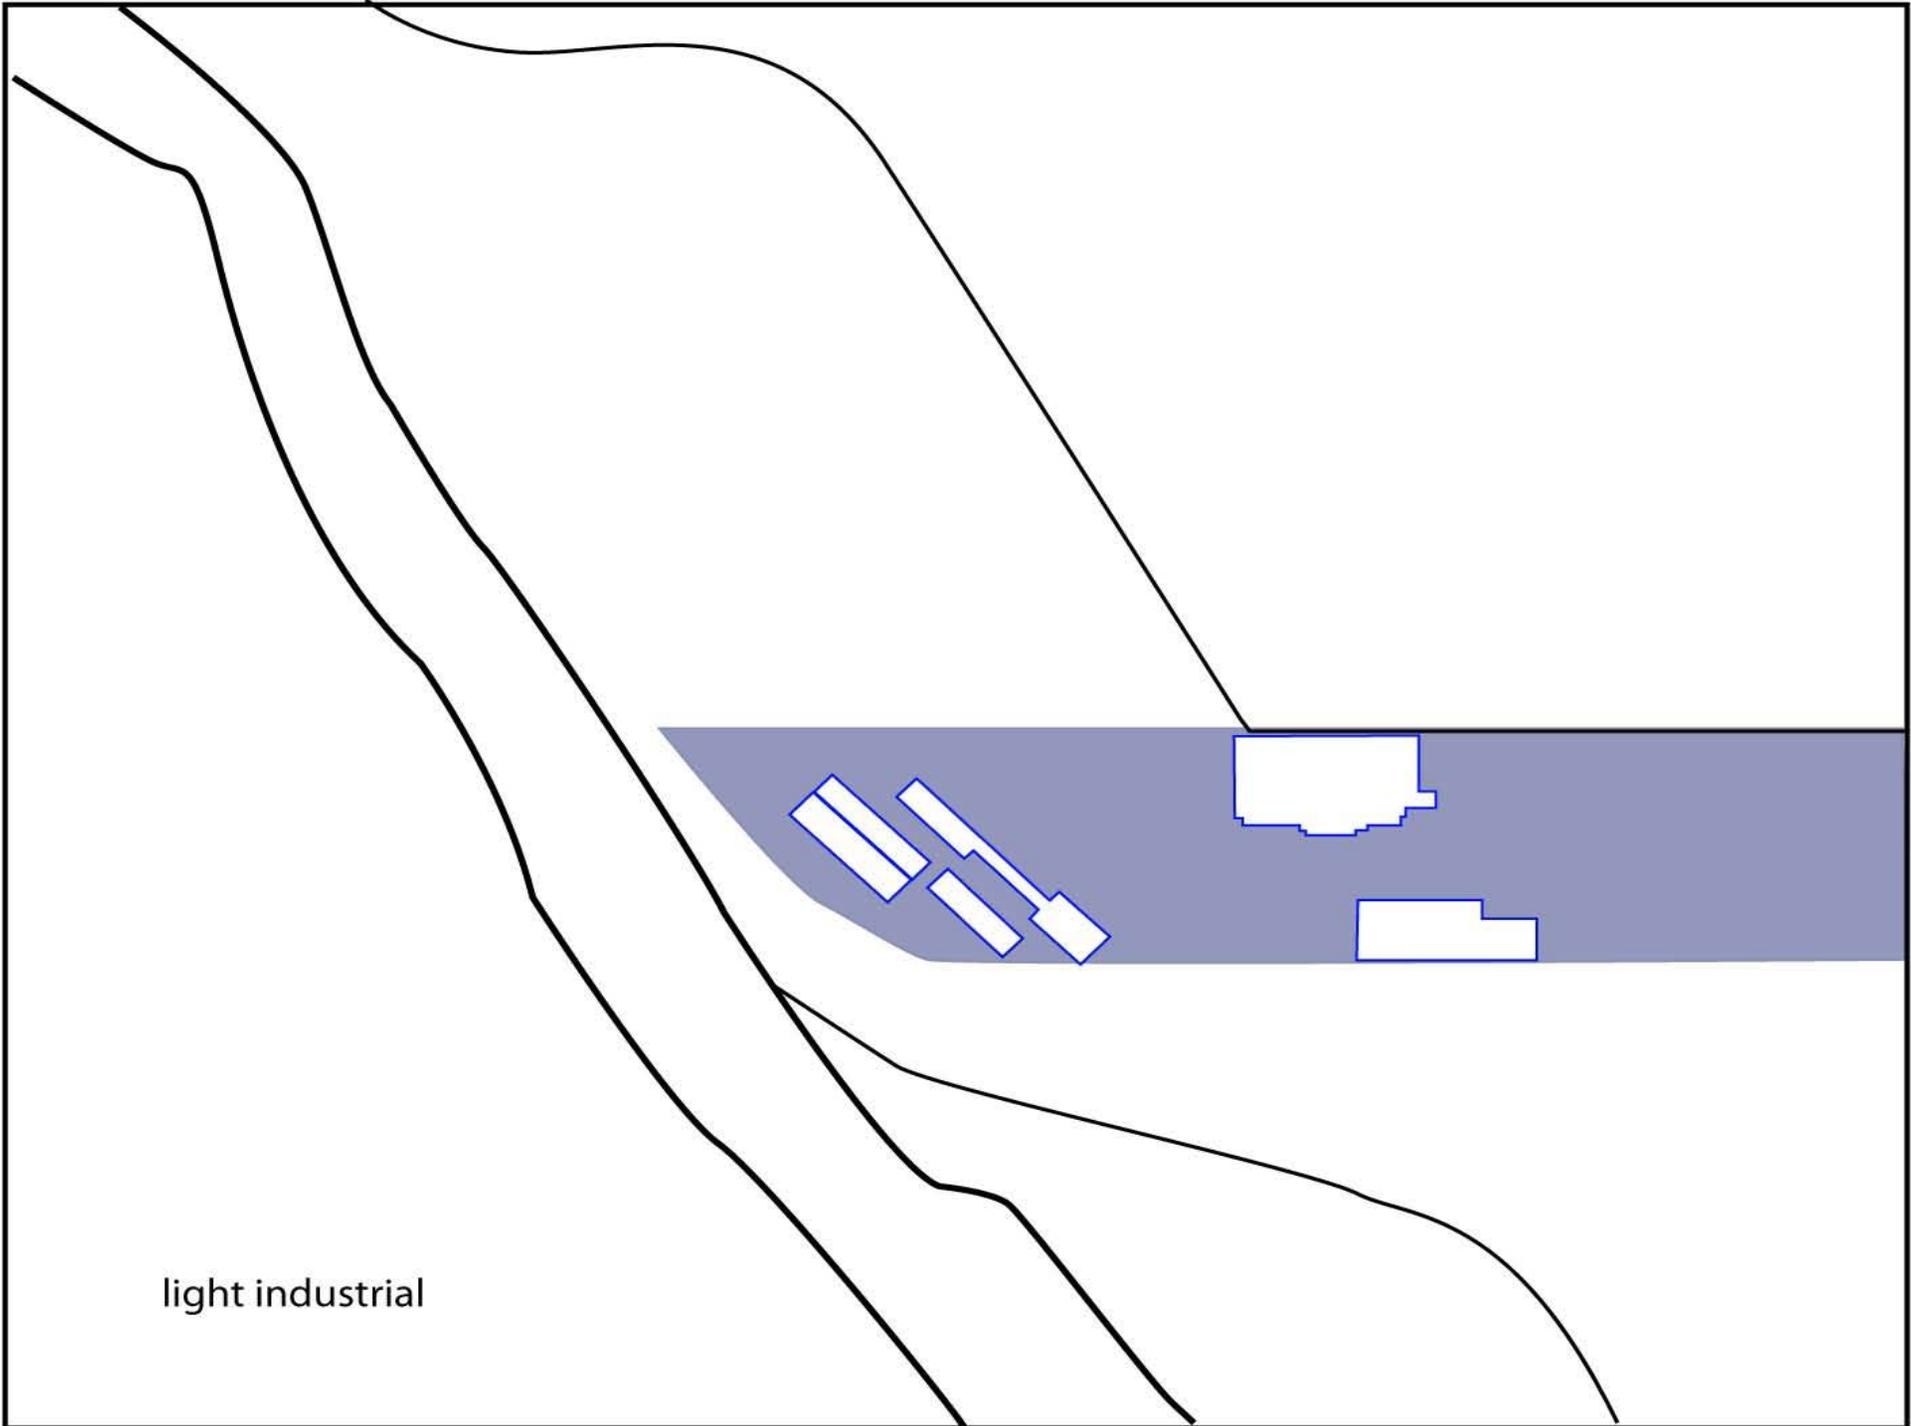

new landmark

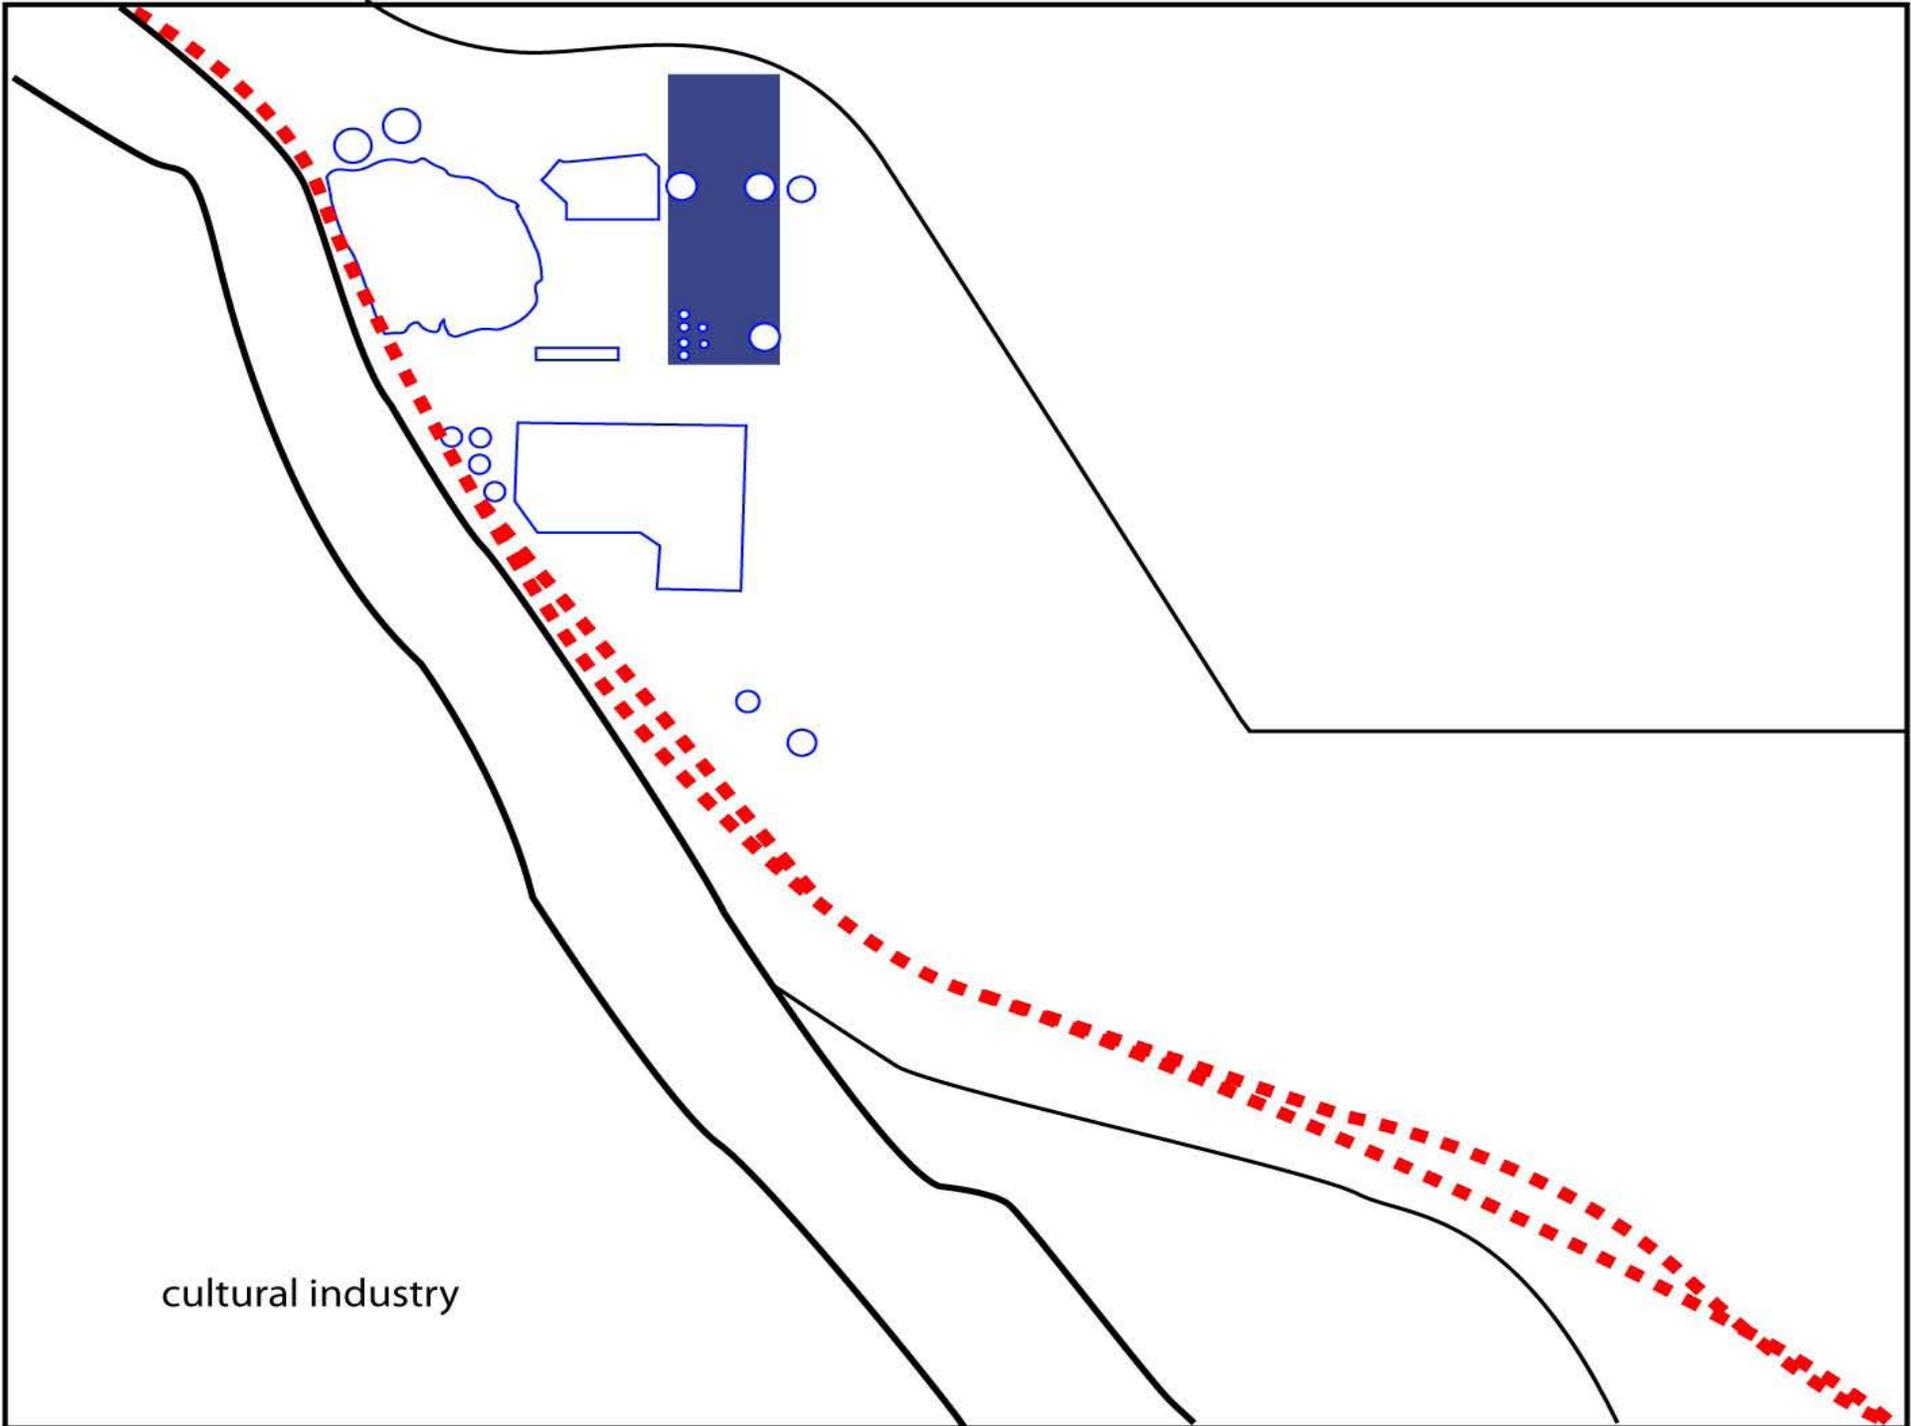

other main roads

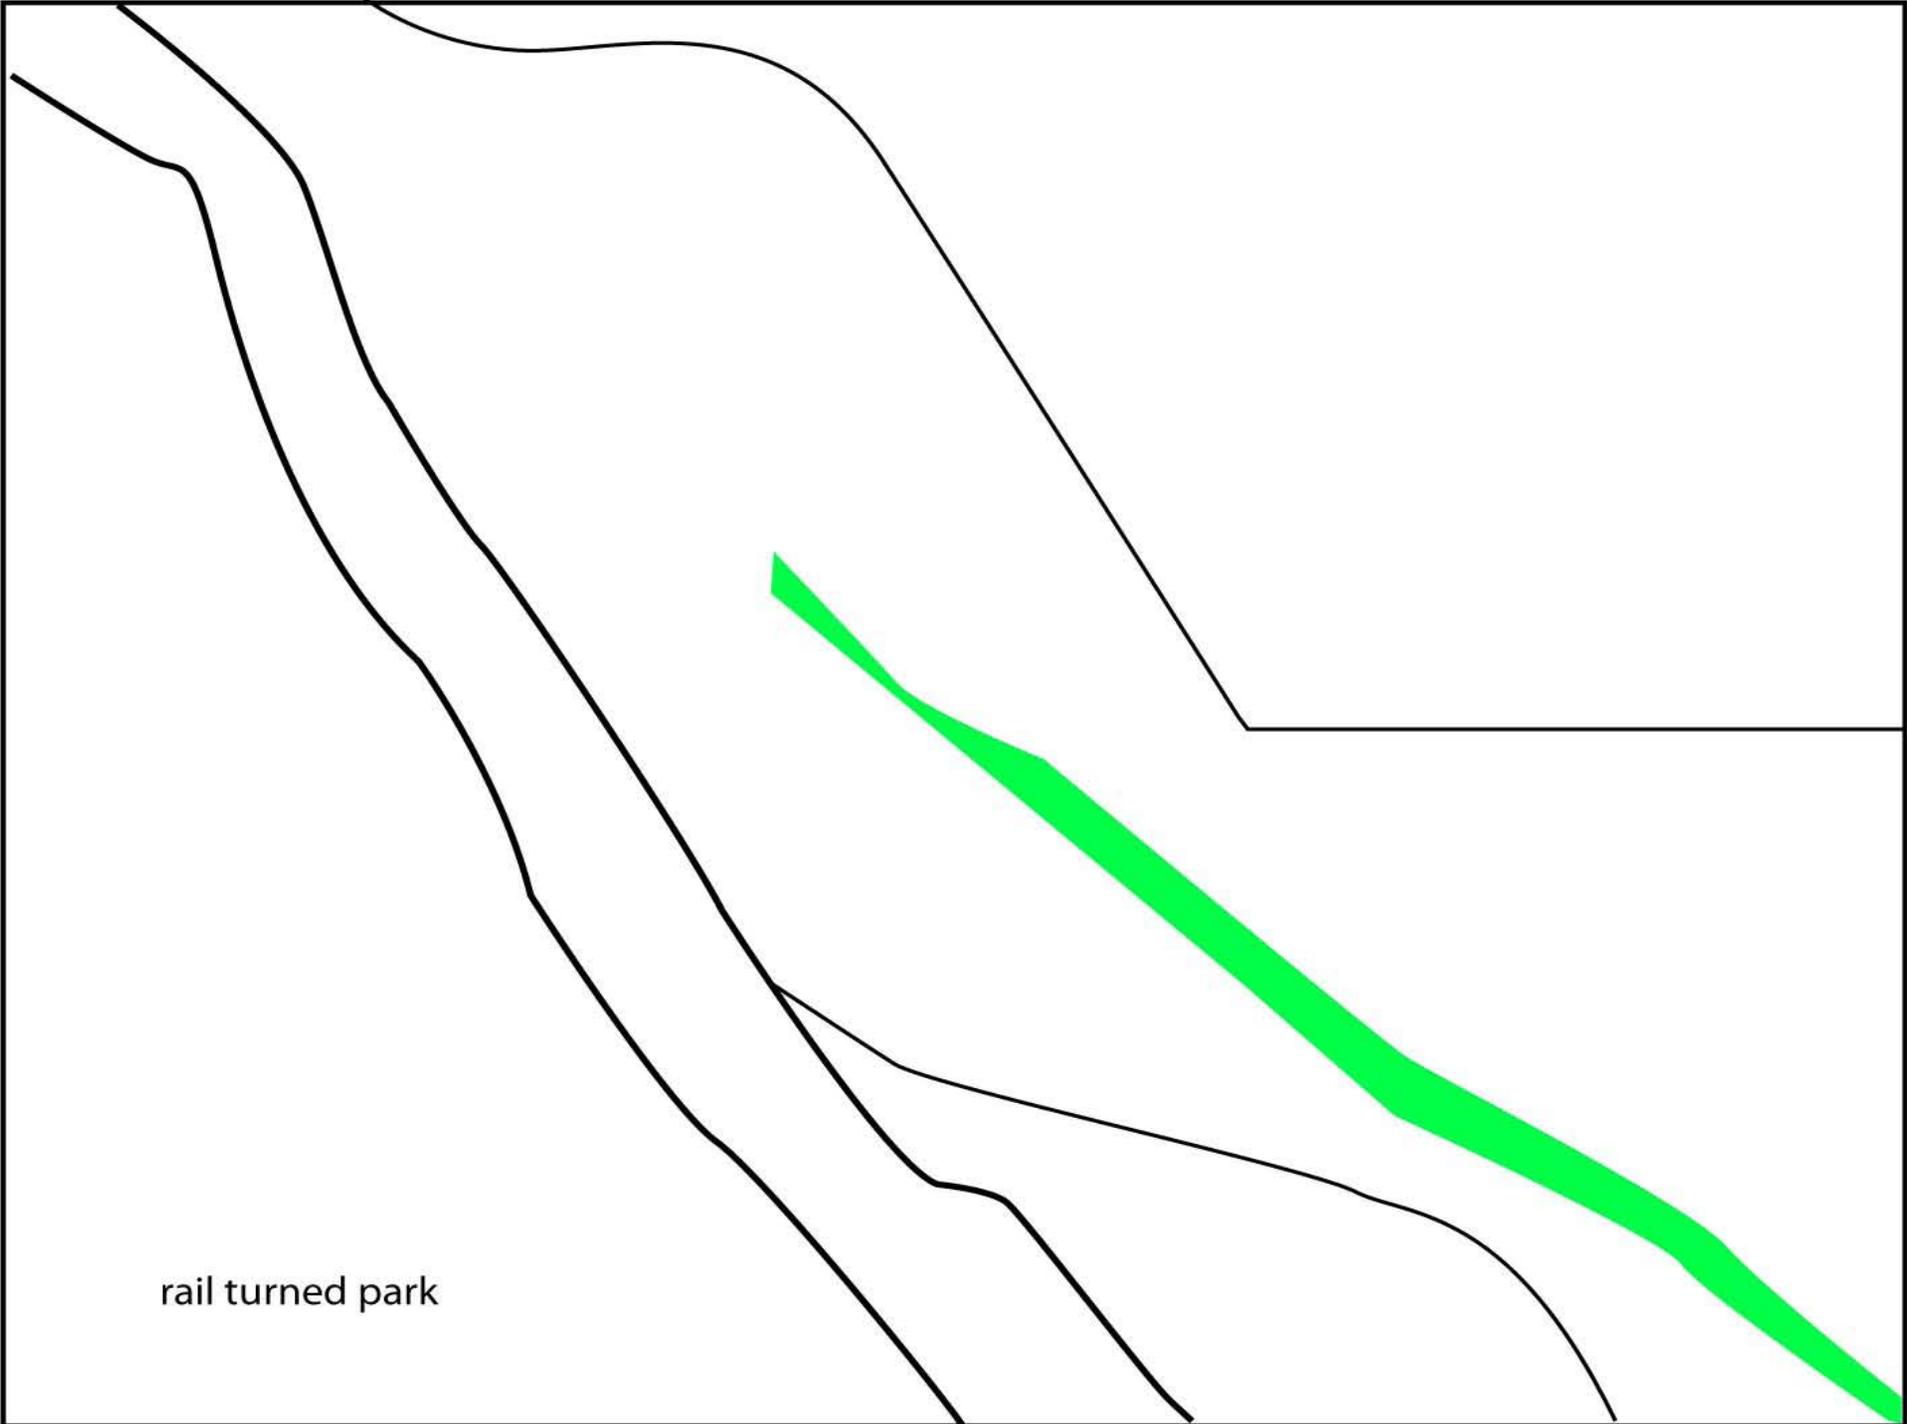

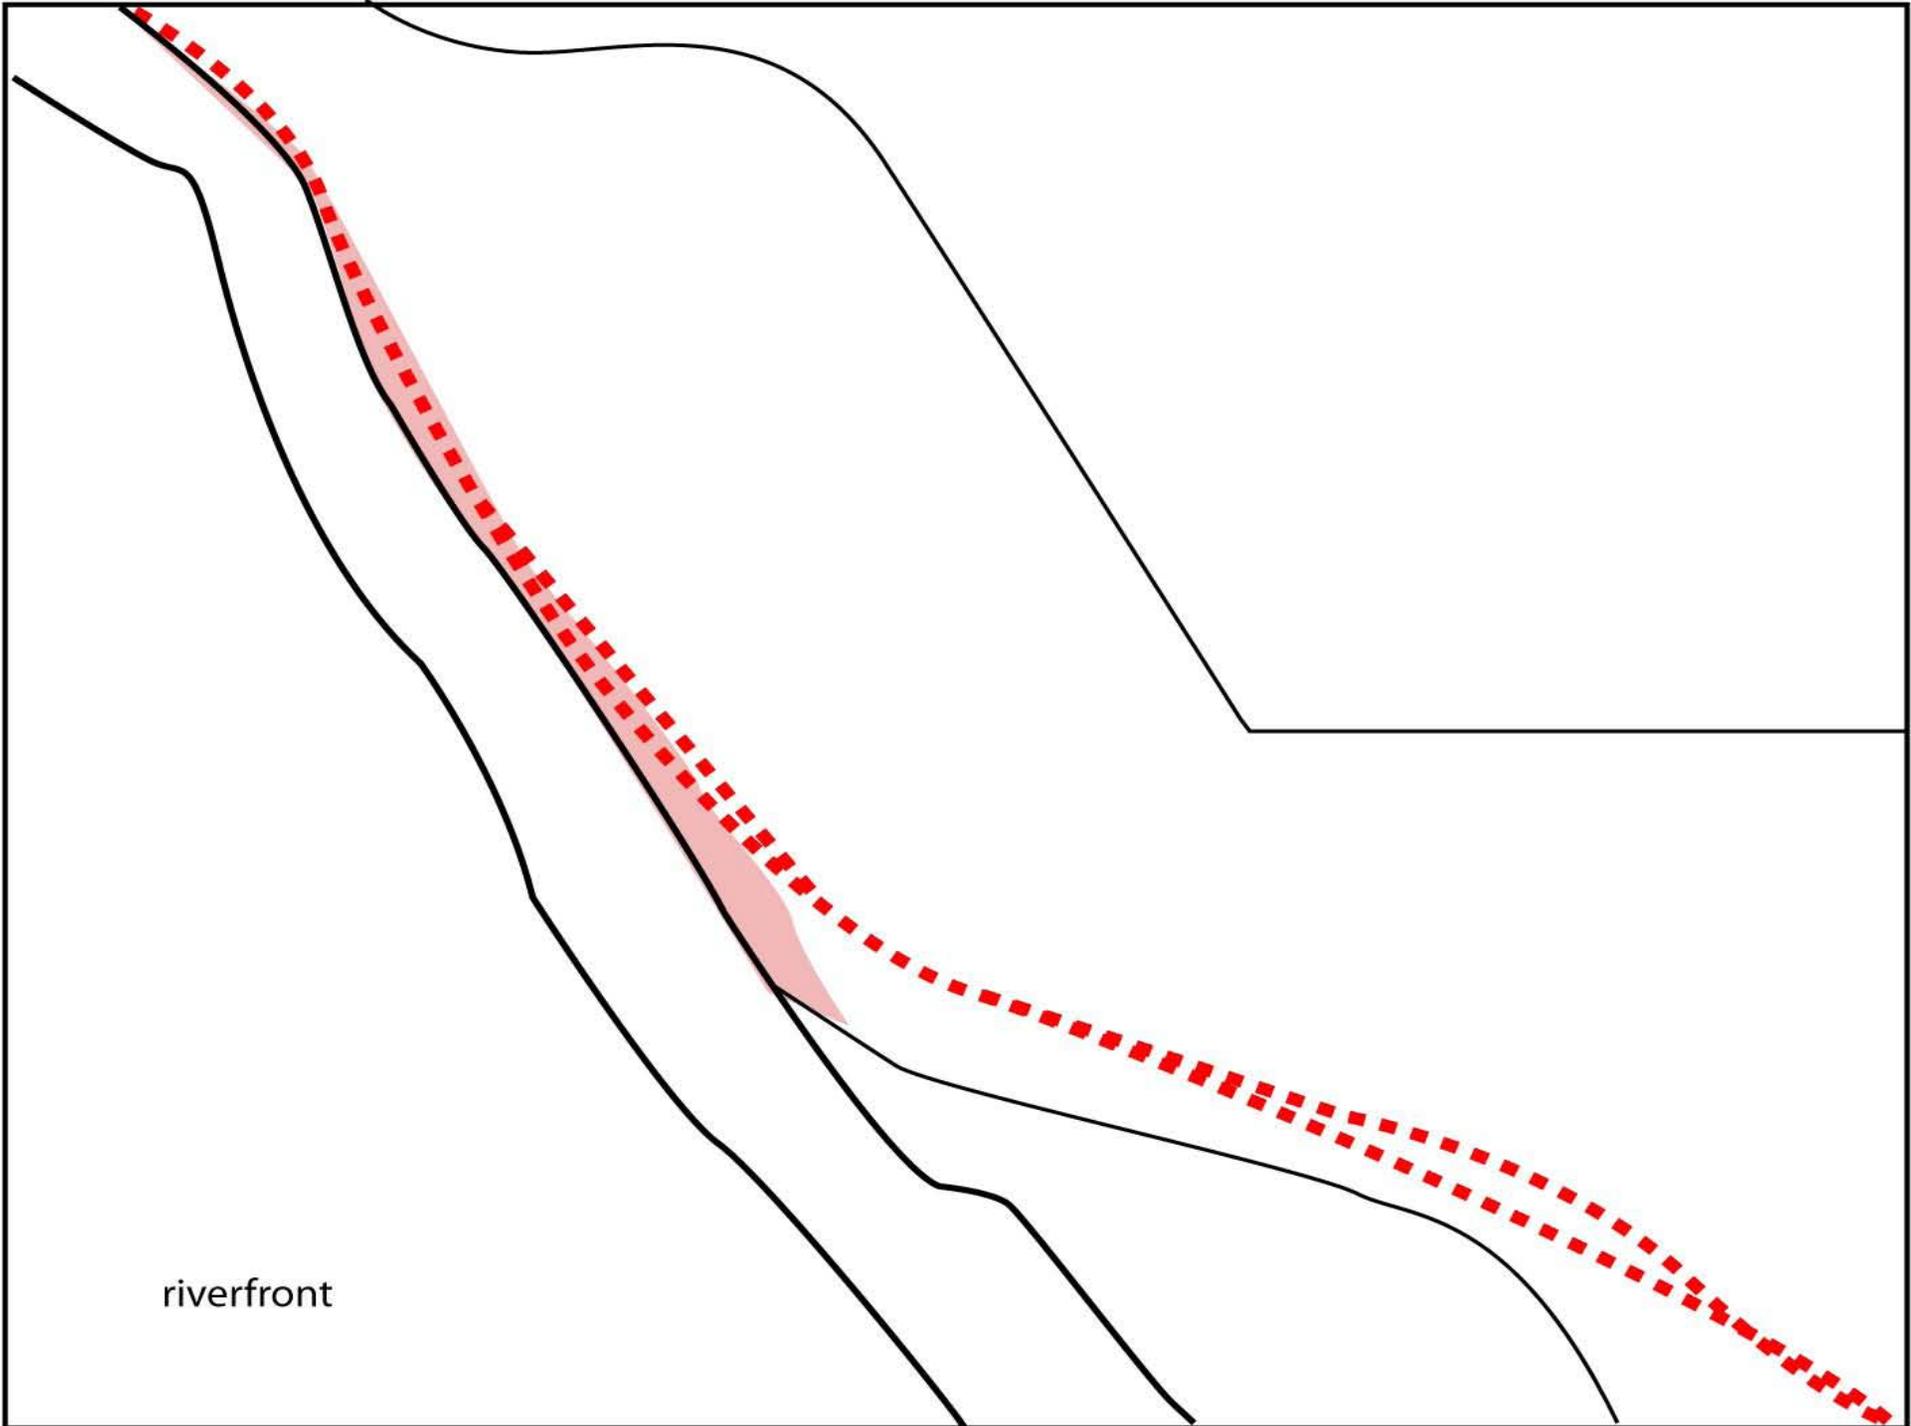

light industrial

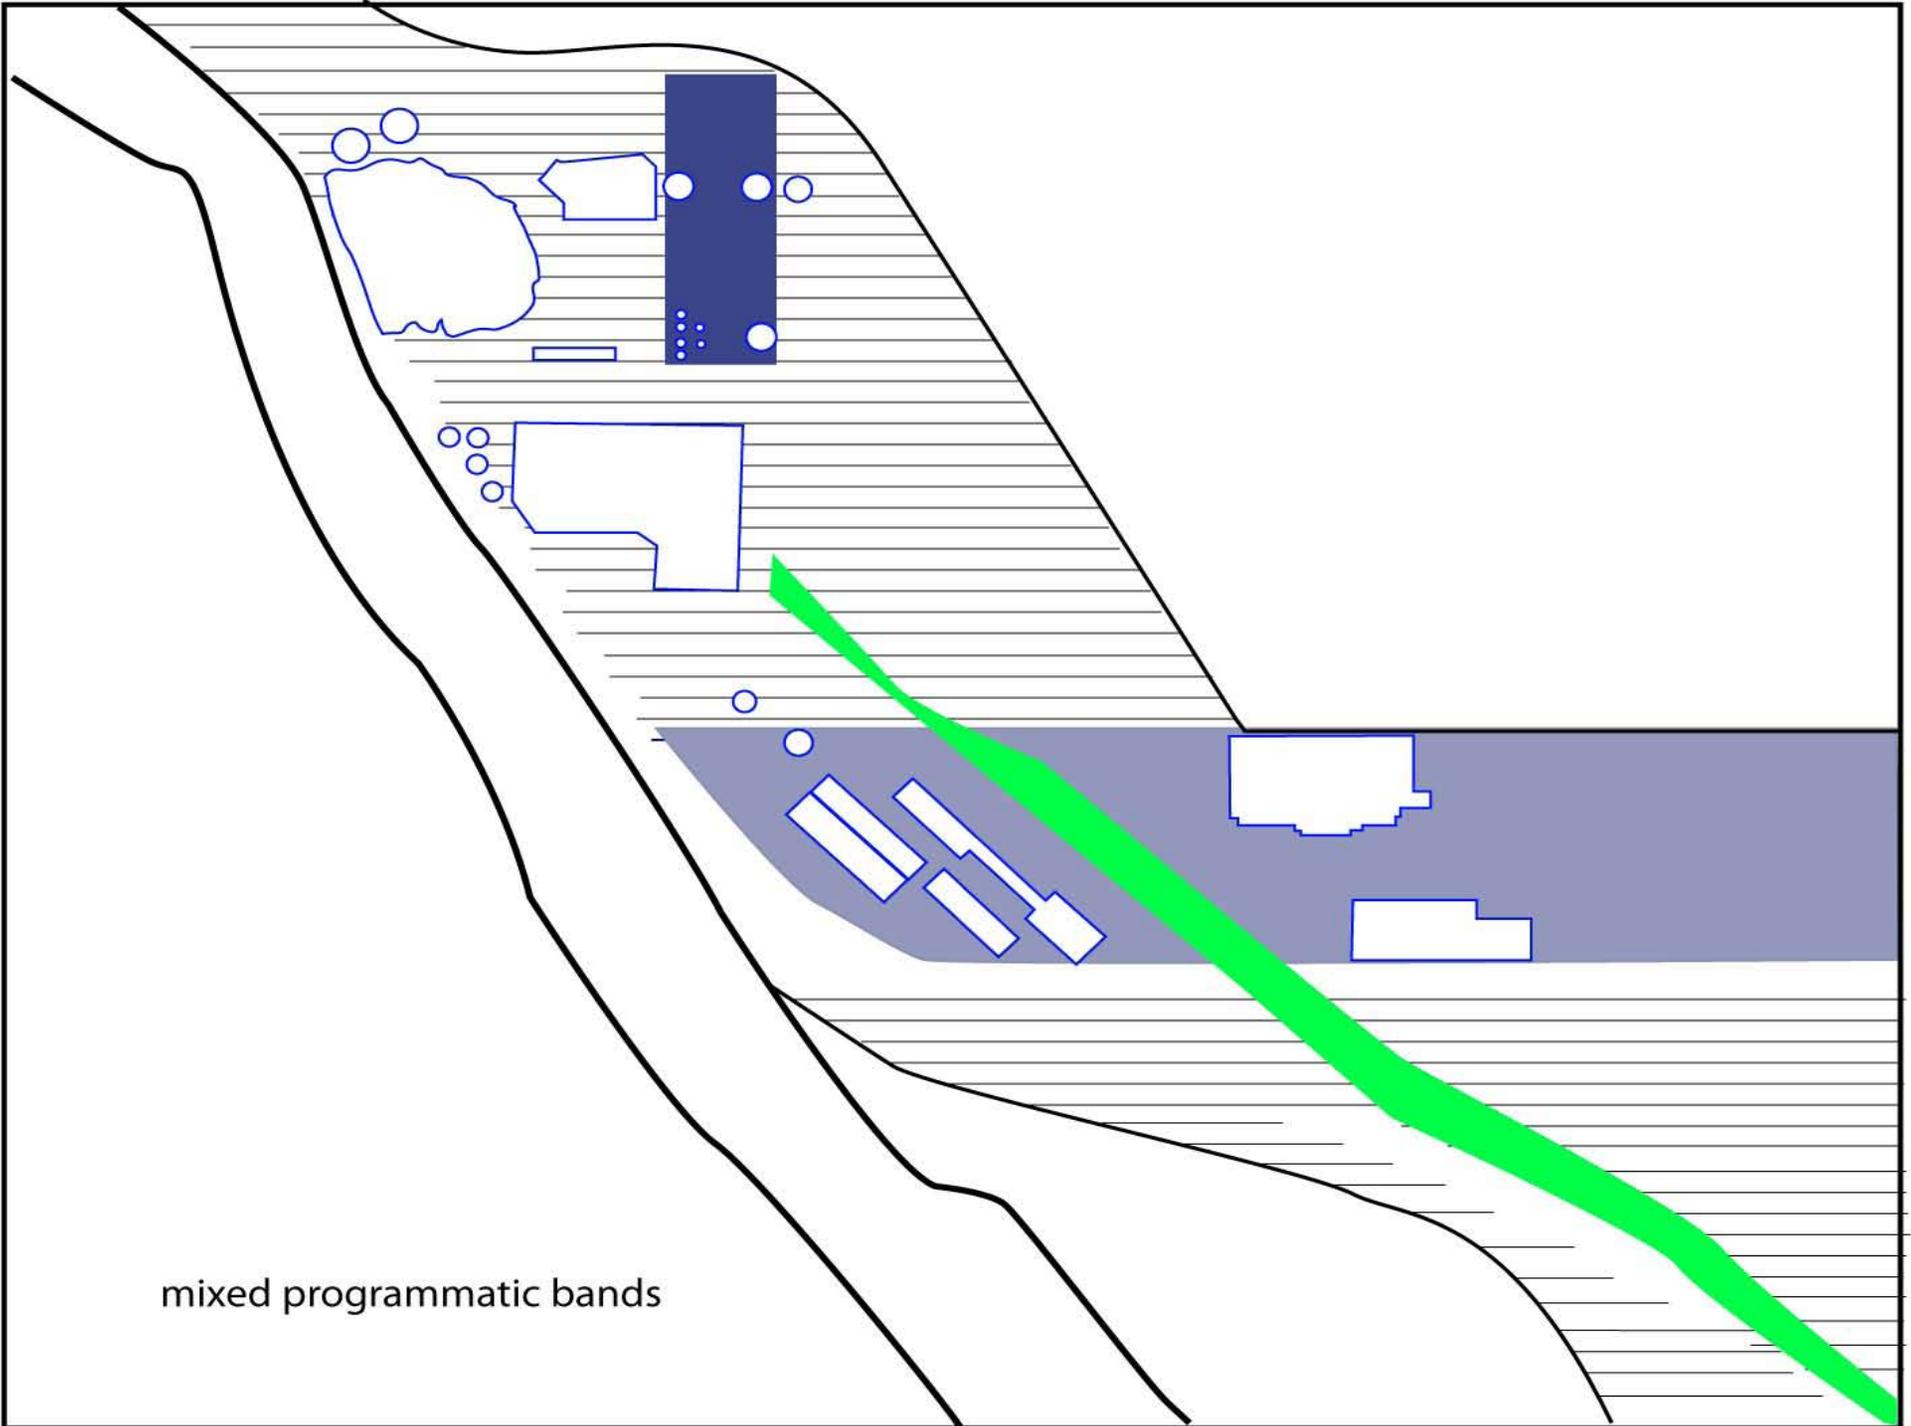

cultural industry

rail turned park

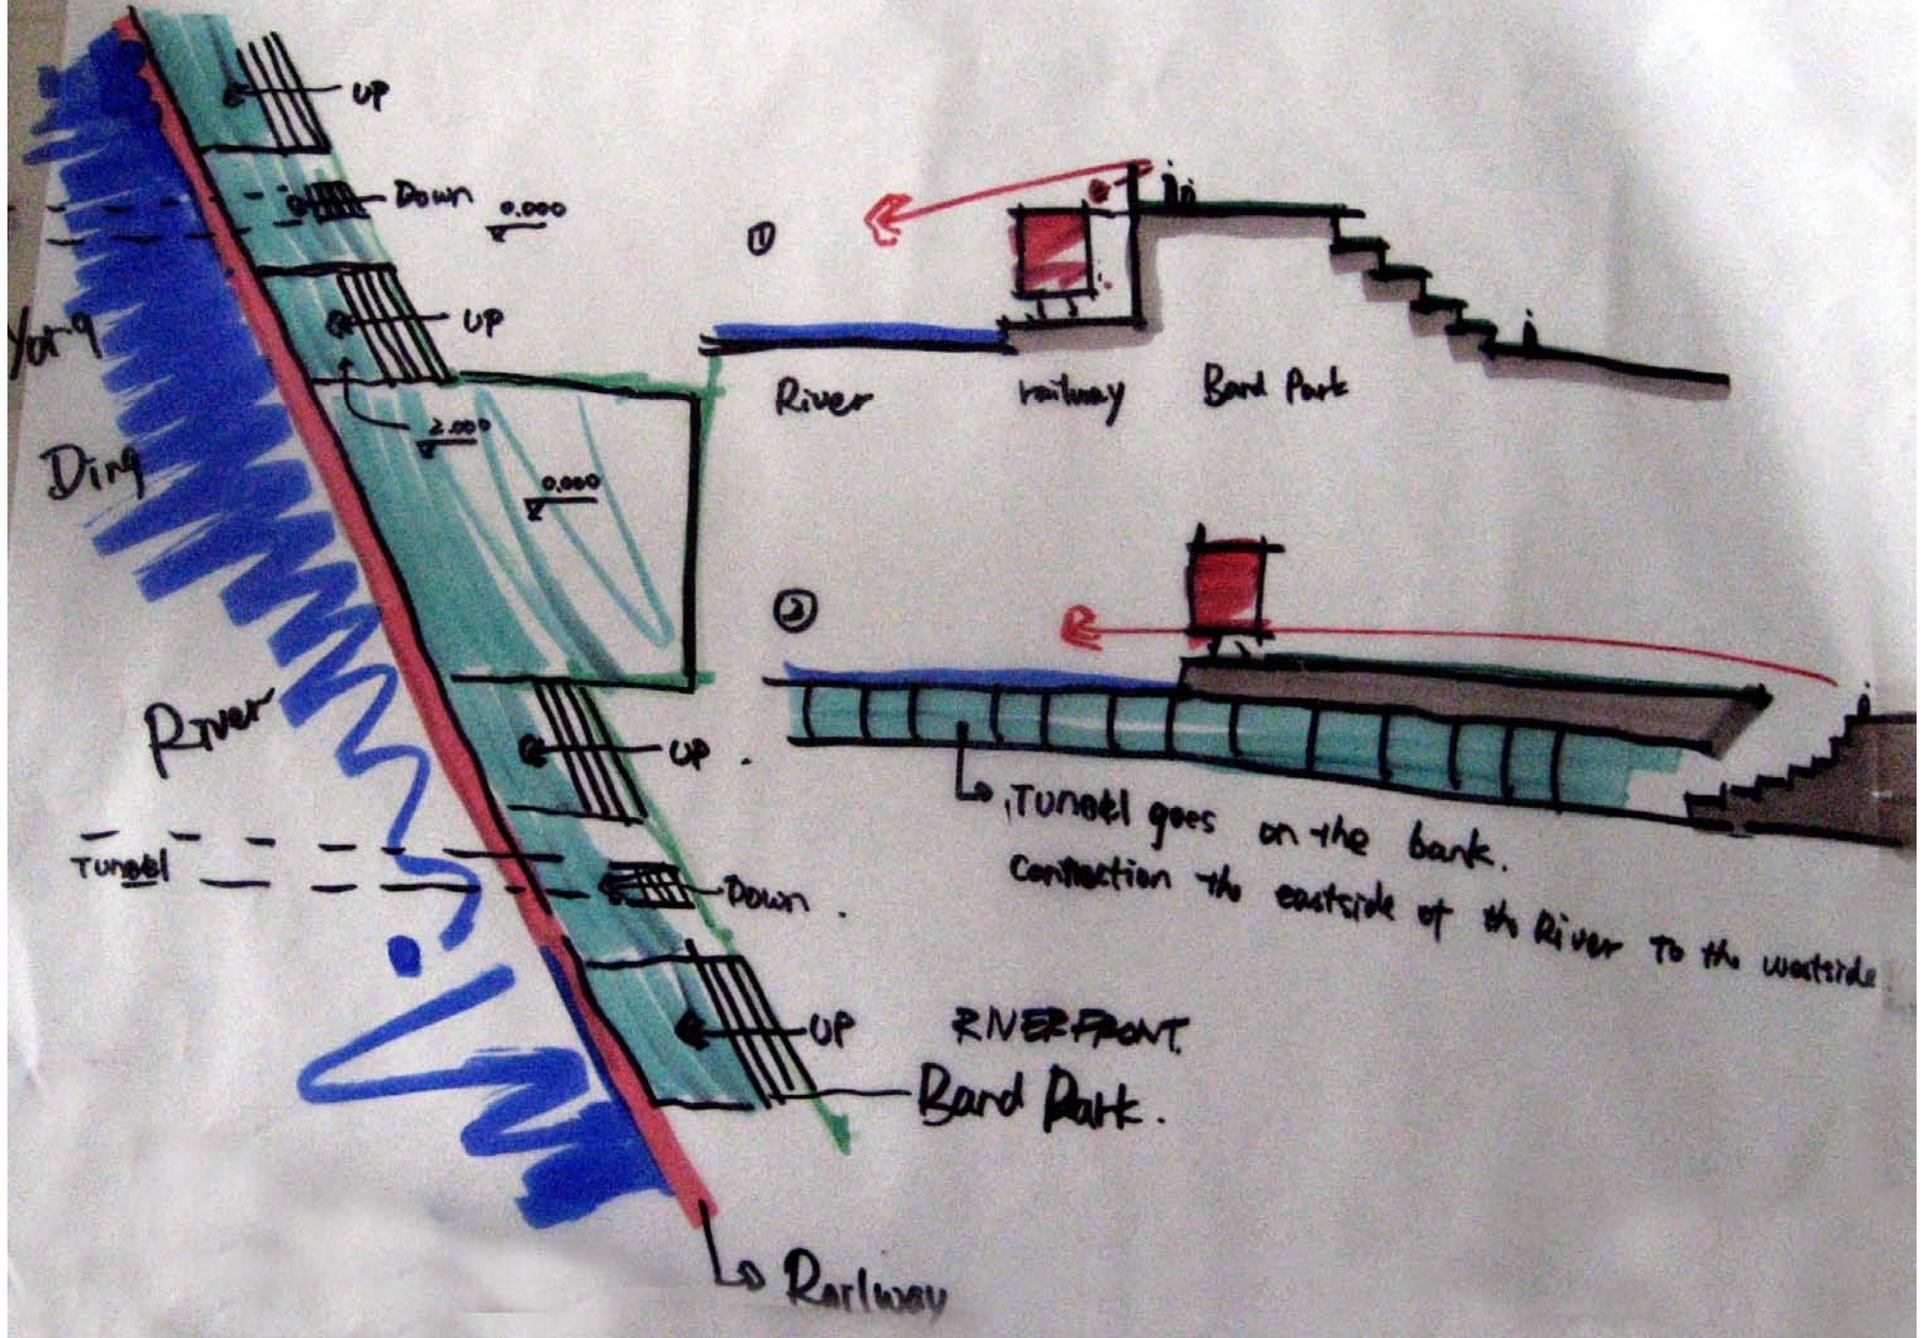

riverfront

mixed programmatic bands

	road
	housing.commerce
	park.public
	education.work
	road
	housing.commerce
	park.public
	education.work
	road
	housing.commerce
	park.public
	education.work
	road
	housing.commerce
	park.public
	education.work

HOW TO USE THE BOUNDARY

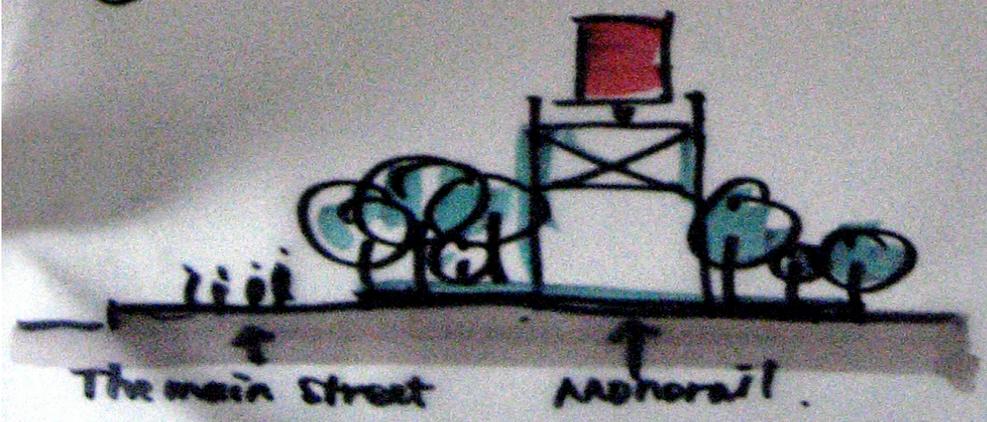

HOW TO DEAL WITH THE ~~NOISE~~ AND THE MAIN STREET MONORAIL?

①

Cut down the noise.
Put stops down the

②

Put a dense of Green
around the monorail, Then we ~~will~~ the main street just beside the green.